more than 10 per cent of Israel's population. The Joint Distribution Committee's operation in Israel—MALBEN—maintains 11 institutions providing half the total number of beds reserved for long-term aged cases—3,230. It also cooperates with national and local authorities in providing medical and social welfare aid to 30,000 other aged immigrants. In addition the Jewish Agency is meeting the needs of other aged who are not eligible for MALBEN services. All these services must be multiplied in 1968.
