police action prevented more serious developments. The mob was dispersed within thirty minutes after the police ordered them to leave. At the same time the police announced the arrest of several dozen sabotage suspects. Most of them were freed after questioning, but sixteen were held for further questioning. Six of the rioters were also arrested and probably will be held for early trial. The rioters were sharply denounced by Minister of Police Eliahu Sason, who said sabotage activities will not be overcome by hurtling innocent people. The police, he added, will take strict measures to suppress attempts to create disorder and violate the law.

Shortly after the police moved in, quiet was restored in both parts of Jerusalem and Jews and Arabs were again mingling freely.

Charter and of the Security Council's resolutions on the Middle East. The resolution said more effective measures would have to be taken if there is no compliance on the part of Israel.

Another item high on the agenda of the Cabinet was the issue of securing the release from Algeria of the hijacked Israeli plane. The meeting was held against the background of a report that a pilot's boycott of Algeria had been called off on the basis of a promise that the plane and its captives would be released after a further investigation is conducted. This development did not sit well with government authorities, who felt that Algeria's delay in releasing the plane more than four weeks after it had been hijacked was totally unwarranted. Foreign Minister

Abba Eban told the Cabinet political efforts to secure the release of the plane and its men would go on including possibly a request for action UN Secretary General U Thant.
