Be sure to watch ABC-TV's "The Flying Nun", May 1, when Sister Bertrille befriends a San Tanco Rabbi and offers him the use of the convent garden for a Jewish wedding. The Rabbi's synagogue in the town is a store building and obviously not the most suitable location for the occasion.

Appropriately, Harold Gould plays the Rabbi. Unappropriately, my good friend Shelley Morrison, a Sephardic Jew, plays Sister Sixto, but Shelley is always convincing, uncannily so.

Yes, you may have seen this episode previously but it's worthwhile watching again. It's a repeat.

In this same vein, Rabbi Edgar Magnin reported that while the St. Basil Church, located in Los Angeles across the street from his Wilshire Boulevard Temple, used the Temple for its Mass while completing its new building.

ALAN KING leaves Saturday, May 3, for Israel, if the fighting doesn't interfere, to help open the Alan King Diagnostic Center for Israeli and Arab children. Alan gathered a couple million dollars for the center. As Red Skelton covers it so effectively, "God Bless, Alan."

WE MOURN the loss of Michael Carr, who died in London at 64. An Irish Jew,

Carr collaborated with Mr. Kennedy (first name unknown) to write the popular song, "Did Your Mother Come from Ireland?" Someone once said that if it weren't for that tune there would be no James Cagney or Pat O'Brien.

THE UNITED Jewish Welfare Fund received the following motion picture industry donations: Jack L. Warner, $125,000; Samuel Goldwyn, $100,000; and Eugene V. Klein, $50,000. (But the Welfare Fund will gladly accept your $1 donation.)

Said Goldwyn for the occasion, "Israel is in grave danger. Yet, she stands tall and proud because she has faith and courage."

FOR YEARS, I've excoriated Hollywood's nepotism, minimizing the acting debuts of dozens of youngsters who couldn't have entered a studio gate without the help of their famous parents. Now, I'm no Frank Sinatra, Kirk Douglas, Henry Fonda, Rex Harrison or Desi Arnaz, but it pleases me to announce that Producer Ross Hunter signed my sprig, Leslie Summers, for a role in "Airport," assuring me at the same time that she qualified only because she passed stringent casting requirements at her audition and in competition with many other young ladies of con-

Billing himself as "two public servants for the price of one," Joseph M. Kadans has announced that he is a candidate for Municipal Judge.

Other character players in "Airport" are Benny Rubin, this column's friend from early Boston days, and Sandra Gould, who used to play the next door neighbor in TV's "Bewitched." When Sandra married director Hollingsworth Morse, the King threshold whenever you enter their home.

KADANS is a former U. S. safety engineer and has been a member of the Bar in the East for 26 years. He is "nationally known as a safety expert" and "nationally known as a legal expert."

An unsuccessful candidate for Governor, U. S. representative, mayor, county commissioner and city commissioner, Kadans is 56 years old. He is now a parttime law professor in Los Angeles.

"If elected as a municipal judge, I will be in a position not only to see to it that the rules of evidence are carefully observed, the innocent protected and the guilty punished, but I promise to make note of traffic laws and regulations that need changing," he said.

"I WILL personally undertake a safety campaign to reduce death and injury on our city streets due to automobile accidents."

Kadans has served as a safety engineer for the U.S. Interstate Commerce Commission, investigating street and highway accidents and recommending safety and traffic regulations.
