ANNA MARIA AT TROP

One-time child prodigy Anna Maria Alberghetti, whose dulcet tones have charmed music lovers for more than 20 years, makes her Hotel Tropicana debut here Friday, May 9, when she heads entertainment in the posh Blue Room for two weeks.

This special Tropicana date will co-feature the song stylings of Bach Yen, the doll-like Vietnamese import tabbed as '92 pounds of Saigon charm.'

Miss Alberghetti, absent from the Las Vegas Strip for many years, began singing in her native Italy at age six and made a sensational Carnegie Hall debut at age

13. TV exposure then led the young singer to dramatic roles with Bing Crosby and Jane Wyman in "Here Comes The Bride."

Other films followed, including "The Stars Are Singing," with Lurtiz Melchior; "The Last Command," "10,000 Bedrooms," with Dean Martin and "Cinderella," with Jerry Lewis. Born in Pesaro, Italy, the petite brunette was honored as the Best Actress on Broadway for her part in "Carnival," in 1961.

Bach Yen has appeared in California, Nevada and Texas since coming to this country three years ago.

Featured in the Blue Room May 23 -- June 5: Xavier Cugat and Bach Yen.
