NEW YORK: - The Chairman of the American Jewish Conference on Soviet Jewry, Lewis H. Weinstein, called on the Soviet Union to release a young Soviet Jewish engineer, Boris Kochibuyevsky, who was sentenced to three years in prison on charges of slander against the Soviet system by his demand to emigrate to Israel.

ISRAEL TO KEEP JUST 3 AREAS CAPTURED FROM ARABS

TEL AVIV (WNS) -- Israel has apparently decided to keep three areas captured from the Arabs during the Six-Day War -- the Gaza Strip, the Golan Heights and a contiguous section of the Sinai Peninsula -- but will return the West Bank to Jordan if there is an agreement to keep the territory demilitarized.

This political decision by Israeli leaders, which follows the "strategic boundaries" concept of Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, was evident in the disclosure of an unwritten plank of the Israeli Labor Party which is expected to retain control of the next Government following the general elections in October.

The official platform refers to "secured and agreed" boundaries, but the unofficial plank -- broadcast on Kol Israel radio but not announced to the press -- nevertheless is the political position of the party and will become Government policy if the ILP wins the election.

While cabinet members and other leaders have in past statement indicated their view of what the new map of Israel would look like, the unofficial platform was the first substantive statement that incorporated all the occupied areas in one formulation.

The exact Sinai area was not defined beyond "Merhav Shlomo" which is the Army's designation of the southern peninsula. It was believed that this territory will be connected to Israel by land running along the Gulf of Aqaba.

Israeli control of the area will insure retention of Sharmel Sheik and prevent any Arab attempt to blockade Eilat, the nation's gateway to Africa and Asia. Egyptian imposition of a blockade against the port was one of the immediate causes of the Six-Day War.

The West Bank would be returned to Jordanian administration but the Jordan River was declared to be Israel's eastern security boundary. This was viewed as meaning that no Arab forces would be allowed to be stationed in the area and the entire territory would be demilitarized.

NEW YORK (WNS) -- The National Council of Jewish Women has endorsed the $8 million experimental Children's Television Workshop, 'Sesame Street,' designed to reach the inner city pre-school child. The Workshop will be launched on November 10 on 160 public TV stations across the nation and is specifically designed to equip youngsters with the basic skills needed to start school on a par with the average middle-class child.

NEW YORK: -- A New York stockbroker who is also a Hebrew scholar plans to combine vocation with advocacy in coming weeks. He will open an office for Goodbody & Co., one of America's largest securities investment firms, in Tel Aviv, Israel, in September.

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- West Bank Arabs have used only 1,000 or 7,000 permits issued to them allowing them to return to their former homes, the Interior Ministry announced.
