

4 ISRAELI SCHOLARS JOIN DROPSIE FACULTY

Noted scholars from Israel and Morocco are among the eight new faculty members added to the staff at The Dropsie College for Hebrew and Cognate Learning. Dr. Abraham L. Katsh, president of the post-graduate university, announced that the new teachers bring the faculty total to 22 scholars for the 56 courses offered. Dropsie College, marking its 60th year, is the only institution in the United States completely dedicated to the study, leading to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy (Ph. D.) of Hebrew, Biblical and post-Biblical studies, ancient and modern Middle Eastern cultural languages, and higher Jewish education.

Professors coming to Dropsie College from Israel are Yehuda Komlosh and Joseph Nevada, as permanent members of the faculty, and S. D. Goitein and Moshe Henry Goshen-Gottstein, as a visiting professor.

Dr. Komlosh, who takes the post of Assistant Professor of Biblical Literature, comes to Dropsie College from Bar-Illan University near Tel-Aviv, where he was professor of Bible and Aramaic.

Dr. Nevada, who will be Assistant Professor of Political Science, also comes from Bar-Illan University where he lectured both in the political sciences and at the School of Law and Economics. A noted constitutional lawyer and commentator on political affairs, he is the author of many books on history and politics, Jewish history and Zionist diplomacy.

Dr. Goshen-Gottstein, who was professor of Bible and semitic languages at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, was a Visiting Professor of Bible and Semitic Studies at Dropsie College. Dr. Goitein, noted linguist and Bible scholar, will be a Visiting Professor of Arabic. He was editor-in-chief of the New Jerusalem Bible published by Hebrew University.

Coming from Rabat in Morocco is Dr. Federico Corriente who will be Associate Professor of Semitic Linguistics. He was professor of Semitics and Hebrew Philology in the Department of Arabic languages at the University Mohammed V at Rabat and Fez in Morocco before coming to Dropsie College. Previously, he was director of the Hispanic Cultural Center of Cairo, Egypt, and taught for several years at the Cairo University in that country. He is widely known among scholars as a linguist.
