

23 ISRAELIS KILLED IN NOV., 74 INJURED

TEL AVIV (WNS) -- The Defense Ministry reported that 23 Israelis--22 soldiers and one civilian--were killed during November from enemy activities along the borders and cease-fire lines and from terrorist activities. Seventy-four Israelis were injured, of whom 63 were soldiers.

The comparable figures for October showed that 18 Israelis were killed and 125 injured.

The Egyptian front continued to be the most active with 342 incidents reported there from Nov. 9-29. The Jordanian front borders were quite with only 10 incidents between Nov. 9-29.

Military analysts said that incidents along the Egyptian lines reflected Cairo's attempt to escalate the fighting and create the belief that the Arab forces were able to mount a major effort against Israel and that such an outbreak of was a possibility unless the Big Powers intervened politically to prevent it.

But it was noted that so far the Egyptian Air Force has not flown the newest, Russian-made MIG-23s into battle and that Cairo did not have the new Soviet T-62 tanks. Russian-made ground to ground missiles with a 50-mile range are expected to be delivered to Egypt but they pose no threat to Israel's population centers. This would have been the case before the Six-Day War when such a weapon located in the Gaza Strip would have been within easy range of Tel Aviv.
