Even tho' this is winter time it is the warmest time of year. Chanukah just passed and Xmas will be here next week. Everyone is busy exchanging wonderful sentiments that we wish they would live up to for the rest of the year. It reminds me that they serve Turkey every Thanksgiving to the poor people. In other words if you're poor you get a shot at a Turkey (dinner that is. It is a 365 to 1 shot. We don't like the odds, we'd rather be rich.

The Tower of Pizza's Bobby Berent just gave me the translation of the old Jewish expression "HOK ME NISHT A CHEYNIK". It means "hit me not a teakettle." His memory goes back to the East Side of New York when he sang in the choir in Brownsville (that's in Brooklyn). Because of his upbringing he walked several miles over the Williamsburgh Bridge and through Brooklyn come rain or come shine to reach the synagogue. This reporter claims that his voice wasn't good enough to sing in the lower East side so he had to take that 8 mile walk every Saturday morning. What bugs me is that he had to pay a nice gentile boy to come over to his house to light the lights.

A REALISTIC NIGHT CLUB SCENE TAKES PLACE DURING THE SHOW WITHIN A SHOW IN THE DESERT INN'S MILLION DOLLAR PRESENTATION OF "PAZZ

"70". THE NEW MUSICAL SUPERSPECTACULAR IS NOW IN ITS SIXTH RECORD-SHATTERING MONTH IN THE ELEGANT CRYSTAL ROOM, SHOWTIMES 8 AND MIDNIGHT.

The Tropicana's Mr. Houssels has class. He makes sure that his hotel buys their Xmas gifts in Las Vegas. Me thinks this is why the Tropicana still has the reputation that makes visitors request reservation, and why they are always recommended by local people. Even tho' they didn't buy their gifts from me they did business with local people. We like that. Everyone else does.

Hey do you know who's opening to night? Its Edie Adams and Alan Drake. We cigar smokers are all in love with her and will be at the Landmark to enjoy her singing. Funny man Allan Drake adds the light touch to a very delightful evening of fun.

One of my friends is worried about the D. A.'s crusade against nudity. Wants to know if the mirrors might be removed from his bathroom.

We told this friend to promise to take his shower with his clothes on from now on. Ben Zolotuchen agreed and if you see Ben wearing a wet suit he is complying with the proposed Nudity laws.

We all love the new promotions that are trying to sell cosmetics to women. There is one that is trying to sell turtle oil. Did you ever see the skin on a turtle? There is another one that is selling Mink Oil. How would you like hair like mink all over your face? When you buy cosmetics please be guided by your doctor or by someone who has been advising women for many years.

We have a problem tonight. We must get to see Tempest Storm at the Aladdin Harold Minsky went to a fantastic expense to bring us this top heavy stripper. Our problem is how to get away from our wives after the services at the synagogue. This would be a great Oneg Shabbat.
