GRAYSON, KEEL WRITE SHOWBIZ HISTORY

When Kathryn Grayson and Howard Keel decided to combine their spectacular talents and made their nitery debut as a team at Las Vegas' Fremont Hotel, they wrote showbusiness history.

For the Grayson-Keel sonalogs, the treat currently attracting hordes of music lovers at the Fremont's beautiful Fiesta Room, is a real entertainment blockbuster.

There are no singers like Kathryn Grayson and Howard Keel. Nor are there any with their sense of the music, the understanding for the mood and the meaning of the songs they sing. And the songs they sing run the gamut of tunes from musical comedy film, opera and some from the contemporary listings.

All they have to do is start singing the kind of music you rarely hear these days and the whole atmosphere is charged with electricity. No matter what they sing they convey emotion and dramatic intensity at supercharged levels.

The blending of Miss Grayson's magnificent soprano voice with Keel's masterful baritone first captivated audiences in the world's motion picture theatres when they teamed up in such unforgettable screen epics for MGM as "Show Boat," "Kiss Me Kate," "As Thousands Cheer,"

"Anchors Aweigh" and "Rio Rita" and the "Desert Song" at Warners and the "Vagabond King" at Paramount.

Looney Lewis, top banana in the all-new "Minsky's Burlesque '70" revue at the Aladdin Hotel's Bagdad Theatre, portrays a hilarious Rhett Butler in the show's "Gone With the Wind" spoof.

Looney's comedy sidekick is lovely straight woman Dy-anne Thorne.
