that the United States was prepared to supply military equipment to "friendly governments, like Israel's to defend the safety of their people" is a timely reassurance in the light of continuing unfriendly actions of the Soviet Union and France toward the State of Israel, according to Philip E. Hoffman, President of the American Jewish Committee.

In a letter sent to President Nixon, commenting on his message last Sunday (Jan. 25) to the National Emergency Conference on Peace in the Middle East, Mr. Hoffman stated:

"We believe this declaration to be especially timely in view of the refusal of the Soviet Union to join in effective limitation of arms to the region, and the mounting evidence that France is escalating its supply of arms to Arab states like Libya, far in excess of their own needs for defense."

Mr. Hoffman praised the President's expression of continued U.S. support for Israel and added:

"I am pleased to note your reaffirmation once again that the United States, in its efforts to find a durable peace in the Middle East, will continue to adhere to the principle that 'peace can be based only on agreement between the parties and that agreement can be achieved only through negotiations between them.'"

Mr. Hoffman, who has met with Secretary of State William P. Rogers on several occasions in the past few months to discuss the Middle East situation, also addressed a letter to the Secretary commenting on Mr. Nixon's message.

"I believe the President's statement was helpful in clearing away some unnecessary misunderstanding," he declared, "and also confirmed, as you had indicated when we spoke about this several weeks ago, the value of public reaffirmation on suitable occasions of the basic position of our Government."
