KIRSCHNER OVERS ABARETS BY AL KIRSCHNER

Trying to say something nice about Friday, June 19th — we came up with Abe (FOXY'S) Fox tale about the Bigamist who made the same mistake twice. Al (Sahara Hotel) Casarotto always comes up with a funny. This week: He asked his buddy "you're not still engaged to that same girl?" His friend Sam said, "Certainly not! I married her."

Don't dare miss "Our Thing" at the Aladdin. This very entertaining musicomedy alternates with Irv Benson and the Minsky Burlesque show. This looks like a real fun show. The girls are something else. After spending three hours at the Aladdin, who wants to go home? Incidentally, please tell Gordon Shields, the Maitre 'd, that we asked for him so that he can sit you way down in front for closer enjoyment.

The visit by Sol Konick, his pretty Laura, and her girl friend Marian, made us all revisit the Lido show at the Stardust. They all claimed it was a thrilling experience. We were especially pleased because we had seen the show opening night and it was great then, but it has gotten better because the show is much smoother now. Sol, the famous drapery man from Phoenix, loved the girls and my sister Laura said she was left speechless because of the beauty and the staging. We agree with Sol and his Laura. This is a great show.

The Caesars Palace combination of Carol Burnett and Jim Nabors is exactly as Joel Snow (Baccarat Caesars) predicted. A Funny Fantastic two hour show. The laughter was there and the music was great. The clothing worn by these two all time greats was beautiful. We loved it, so will you.

Jackie Leonard (Flamingo Hotel) tells me the unlikely tale that comes from the garment district in New York. Bob Winters told him that Abe Teitelbaum was crooked. Jack asked why? Bob said, "Even the wool he pulls over your eyes is half cotton."

This reminds me about the time we worked in a clothing store on Delancy Street on the lower East Side of New York. I asked the owner if the all wool shirts would shrink. He said "If it's too big for the customer they certainly will". Sorry — but it's true.

Love the story that Nick Kelly tells about the time he took a trip upstate New York and methinks it was

West Point where the famous General Pershing got his commission said the guide. Nick's traveling companion Sam Levinson said "How much commission did he get?"

Raul the Tailor in Somerset tells offering a customer a suit with an extra pair of pants at a very low price and Scotty Ferrer replied "Throw in an extra jacket and you got a deal". Nuff sed!

Joe Amore visited his doctor and explained that his wife claims he talks in his sleep, Doc Herman Gilbert said, "What's your problem? Just don't do anything you shouldn't".

No Kirschner Kolumn is complete without a story by Frank Robb the Master Furrier. He tells about the time when he revisited his doctor about his cold and the Doc said, "Your cold is still bad but it doesn't bother me." Frank replied, "If you had a bad cold it wouldn't bother me either."

The Daily Dirt in the Desert Inn lounge is a breath taking experience. Anyone who misses this exciting show will be sorry. We loved every moment of this spoof of the Newspaper racket. Outstanding was Jon Gregory and his Helene. Incidentally, Jon was also the choreographer and the director. This fine act as far as we are concerned belongs in a big showroom. That's how great they are.

Just got a call from Dallas. Dr. Berk and a few other Texas investors are threatening to come in shortly to revisit their money. Lots of luck or should we say that Texas doesn't need the money. One of the Texas guys claims that they might decide to buy the United States. The way the economy is going they can buy it cheap right now.

Hey, you like weddings? Sol Wolf tells me about the Chousid (deeply religious guy) on his wedding night he stamped so hard on the glass that his bride had a miscarriage. Or do you prefer the story that Kurt Drucker tells about the attractive nudist who wouldn't go out into the sunshine because she wanted to be married in white.

More Kabaret next week.
