Soviet Jews (Continued from Page 1) as the Los Angeles Times. Most of the talk of immigration was only that----talk."

These statements were varified this morning when the two groups received word that two new trials will be held next month after the conclusion of the 24th Communist Party Congress in Moscow. According to Yaroslavsky and Frumkin, Chairman of the Southern California Council for Soviet Jews, "A trial involving those arrested Leningrad Jews who did not face trial in December because of the outcry of world opinion, will face trial in Leningrad immediately after the conclusion of the Communist Party Congress which begins on March 31." The two community leaders continued their mammoth disclosure, "A trial involving the arrested Riga Jews including Ruth Alexandrovich, the noted Soviet Jewishfreedom fighter, will begin on April 15, also after the conclusion of the Party Congress."

"The reason for this development is clear," said Yaroslavsky who has visited both Riga and Leningrad recently. "The Soviets traditionally create a very liberal image before the Party Congresses, so that dissention among the delegates will be held at a minimum."
