A Lulu of a Show

Riviera Hotel executives Ed Ross and Tony Zoppi deserve twin bouquets for their current smash mainroom attraction starring Lulu and Ray Stevens.

Lulu, the bright big and blue-eyed redhead from England, is sure to win you over right from the start of her performance. She appears from the rear of the Versailles Room singing "Let The Sun Shine In." Her white leather midi is quickly reduced to white leather hot pants. Cute as they come, Lulu looks and sounds very professional in her Las Vegas debut with her versions of "To Sir With Love," "Eli Is Coming" and "My Sweet Lord." The positive show stopper is Lulu's medley of tunes from the hit play "Oliver."

Ray Stevens, the star of the show, has been writing and singing best sellers for some time now. His debut to Las Vegas big room entertainment insures his headlining for many years to come. Stevens' highly impressive regular backup consists of four gals and two guys all dressed in patriotic red, white and blue. Three lovely additions, the Holiday Sisters, compliment the vocal harmony as well as the versatility

WAVE OF STRIKES HIT ISRAEL

TEL AVIV (WNS) -- Strikes involving power station operators, dock foremen and movie houses hit Israel last week and caused the Cabinet to meet in emergency session to deal with the situation. The most serious strike involved 29 government hospitals where 1,000 doctors and 4,000 management and service personnel walked off. Two of the struck hospitals, Tel Hashomer and Assaf Harofe, have discharged half their patients and none of the struck hospitals are admitting any but emergency patients. High school student volunteers are working in some hospital kitchens. Six thousand power station workers remained on strike. Eighty-five dock foremen walked off the job.

WASHINGTON (WNS) -- High ranking naval officers are said to believe that the growth of Soviet naval power in the Mediterranean and a growing weakness of the American position in the area means that the U.S. will be unable to protect Israel should a new war break out next year.

In closed Congressional hearings, the officers

OPPOSE DAYAN

TEL AVIV (WNS) Ezer Weizman, Herut Party leader and brother-in-law of Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, has called for Dayan's resignation.

In calling for the resignation, Weizman, a former head of the Israeli Air Force, charged that Dayan wants Israel to agree to a partial settlement with Egypt that would be equivalent to a partial withdrawal by Israel. Weizman declared that "Israel should accept a partial settlement only if we know exactly what is the final settlement and if this final settlement are reported to have said that if war breaks out in mid-1972, they would have to advise the President on purely military grounds to let Israel be overrun by a joint Soviet-Egyptian attack.

But observers here viewed their pessimistic observations as a "familiar ploy" to extract larger appropriations from Congress.

"Until then," he said, "we should continue to sit on the Suez Canal till the Egyptians say 'come and talk things over.'"

HUMPHREY

NEW YORK (WNS) -- Speaking at the annual dinner of the Religious Zionists of America, Minnesota Democratic Senator Hubert H. Humphrey declared "I can say without the shadow of a doubt and without fear of contradiction that the people in the Congress of the U.S. are not going to let Israel suffer for lack of materials for self-defense."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Due to a breakdown of typesetting equipment, we regret the L.V. Israelite could not publish a Tell Tale column in last week's edition. The same column, with a few updated revisions, is presented here.)

After all the arguments, pro and con, have been aired whether it is proper to publish officially stamped secret U.S. documents, the controversy narrows down to two basic principles, and strange to report, neither one has been brought out in the court hearings to date.

The government, in its court battle to stop further publication, contends it will be harmful to national defense interests. The newspapers maintain, since the information in the documents is more than four years old, it has greater historic value and will not be detrimental to national security.

We believe the publication of stolen, secret, U.S. stamped secret documents is a legal, moral and ethical wrongdoing, and will pose the greatest threat to the free press since the beginning of journalism in America.

This may seem a strange view presented by a publisher who has staked his reputation and fortune on the strongest interpretation of free press granted by the U.S. Constitution. But even the strongest interpretation has its limitations. Thereby lies one of the principles involved in the unprecedented action.

Our son Jay, who presents the opposite view in a lengthy story in this week's Las Vegas Free Press, contends that the wording of the right to free press in the U.S. Constitution is absolute, it is infinite, it has no limitations and does not call for interpretation. We maintain everything in this world, physical, metaphysical, mental, oral, ethereal, has a cut-off point, except religion, which is based on faith.

No one cherishes more than we do, the four freedoms named in Article I of the Bill of Rights, those of religion, speech, press and assembly. We have lived by them, supported them, utilized them to the fullest, and will do our utmost to prevent them from being abused.

It has often been stated by our most learned jurists, that the right to free speech, is not a right to yell fire in a crowded theatre. Jay maintains the yelling itself, is not the breach, but the harmful result that should be penalized. In support of Jay's contention, Justice Hugo Black recently wrote an opinion in a libel suit in the U.S. Supreme Court stating: "It is time for this court to adopt the rule to the effect that the First Amendment was intended
