$15 MILLION TO NYC JEWISH POOR "NEFARIOUS LIE"

NEW YORK (WNS) --The Association of Jewish Anti-Poverty Workers denied that New York City was spending "a minimum of $15 million for parochial Jewish programs." The claim had been made by Dr. Marvin Schick, an administrative assistant to Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Calling the statement a "nefarious lie," S. Elly Rosen, Association executive director, charged that the city's claim to be financing a $100,000 manpower-training program and a "close to $500,000 aid-to-the underqualified program specifically directed towards Jews was "apparently a figment of somebody's imagination."

Dr. Schick said the $15 million figure was an "honest estimate" that in fact was probably "too low." He said the aid to Jews takes the form of job training, manpower training, youth services, assistance to the elderly and to addicts" and "dozens and dozens of things I don't even know about."

Rosen charged the claims of aid were a "cruel hoax against poor Jews." He said he had tried to substantiate the existence of the alleged aid programs with all relevant city agencies and with Dr. Schick himself but was refused information.

He said of the youth-aid programs: "They apparently have no sponsor, no administrative agency, no exact funding, no method of application or participation," and he challenged the city to prove that its aid-to-Jewish-poor programs exist.
