DA WOOFER'S YOUNG CITIZEN'S BRIDGES GAP

District Attorney Roy Woofter is holding a two-day District Attorney's Young Citizens Council Issues Conference at the Sahara Hotel.

The Conference has been in the formative process since September of last year. In May, 1971, the District Attorney's office, with Stanton Colton as administrative coordinator, surveyed 20% of the students in sophomore, junior and senior grades throughout all Clark County high schools.

Purpose of the survey was to determine major problems contributing to the communication gap between that age group and adults of the community. It was found that 68% of participating students felt that police and parental relations are the two major contributors to the communications problem. A close third were drugs and narcotics. Other concerns were school pressures and war-related uncertainties.

There were 10 proposed corrective youth were also included as effective means of correcting the gap. Woofter explained that the purpose of the conference is to discuss these and other issues and set up corrective measures. Israelite Ads Pay
