NEW ASHTON BURLESQUE AT SILVER SLIPPER APR. 4

Glenn Neely, General Manager of the Silver Slipper Gambling Hall & Saloon announced April 4, 1972, will mark the opening of the 1972 edition of Barry Ashton's "Wonderful World of Burlesque."

Although Mr. Ashton has had "Wonderful World of Burlesque" in the Silver Slipper for over four years, there have been only four shows, being so successful that each one has run over a year.

Known as the Flo Ziegfeld of the 1970's, Mr. Ashton never ceases to choose the most stunning beauties of the industry for his Ashton Girls, each year outdoing himself with the cream of the beauty crop, and naturally this year is no exception.

It was also stated by Mr. Neely that "Wonderful World of Burlesque--1972" will begin a new policy on its performance format. There will be two shows a night for five days a week and 3 shows on Saturday with the Gaiety Theatre going dark one day.

Mr. Ashton will again be headlining top names of Burlesque for this year's show, which are to be announced as soon as contract negotiations have been completed.

AIRWEST TO EXPAND IT'S SERVICE

Las Vegas will get expanded air passenger service beginning March 13 when Hughes Airwest restores scheduled flights throughout its system. In all, 44 cities in the carrier's normal flight schedule will be added to 28 others now receiving service. This completes the second phase of a gradual return to service. For many communities it will be the first scheduled air transportation since a mechanics' union strike on Dec. 15 forced the airline to sharply curtail operations. "We will provide safe and efficient service as an extension to a successful operation conducted during the strike," said Russell V. Stephenson, vice president of marketing for the airline.

For many communities it will be the first scheduled air transportation since a mechanics' union strike on Dec. 15 forced the airline to sharply curtail operations.

"We will provide safe and efficient service as an extension to a successful operation conducted during the strike," said Russell V. Stephenson, vice president of marketing for the airline.

"We will fulfill previously stated obligations to our cities, even though some route segments will be a loss financially."

He said that in order to serve as many cities as possible, normal flight frequencies will be reduced because of the logistics of routing available aircraft and the number of supervisory mechanic personnel.

"The current expansion is tailored to meet our high maintenance standards based on past performance," he said.
