CHEVALIER TRIBUTE IN TROP SHOW

A special running tribute to the late Maurice Chevalier has been added to the spectacular 'All New for '72' "FOLIES BERGERE" at the Tropicana Hotel and Country Club in Las Vegas.

Parisienne nightclub and recording sensation Audrey Arno, who was brought to Las Vegas to headline the American version of the century-old French revue, now sings a five-song medley of songs which Chevalier made famous in his long show business career.

Chevalier, perhaps the world's most beloved Frenchman, began his association with the "FOLIES" nearly six decades ago, when he got his first major booking at the celebrated Paris night-spot.

Oddly, the young song-and-dance man got off to a discouraging start. One critic at the time asked in his review, "Who engaged this painfully unfunny comic to do his worst.."

History, of course, has proved the critic to be embarrassingly wrong. It was during a return engagement at the "FOLIES" two years after his debut into big-time show business, that Chevalier met the intriguing and beautiful Mistinguett, who was starring in the revue. That meeting sparked what became one of the entertainment world's most celebrated and colorful romances.

Twenty years later, success having tapped him on the shoulder, Chevalier and the "FOLIES" again crossed paths. This time, Chevalier was picked to play opposite Ann Southern in the "The Folies Bergere," a movie reviewing the long history of the world's most distinguished live stage production.

In the medley sung by Miss Arno are three songs, "Mimi," "Thank Heaven for Little Girls," and "Louise."

SANDLER & YOUNG AT FLAMINGO

Tony Sandler and Ralph Young, who constitute living proof that there is a market for beautiful music no matter how hard the rock 'n roll gets, join comedian Corbett Monica at the Flamingo Hotel March 16 for four weeks of comedy and song.

Sandler & Young are somewhat of a phenomena inasmuch as they are one of the few male singing duos headlining cafes today and because they did not reach any degree of fame until their careers were well under way. Tony's continental charm is perfectly complimented by Ralph's down-home typically American antics, and their onstage camaraderie is as much a part of their success as are their superior singing voices.

Today Sandler & Young are established stars with engagements in major supper clubs all over the country. They rank among Capitol Records' biggest selling stars with eight hit albums to their credit. Singers consider Corbett Monica an ideal stage companion because of his ability to "warm up" an audience. A Las Vegas favorite for many years, Monica won fame via his starring role in the Joey Bishop television series.

All-time favorites the Mills Brothers will headline the Casino Theatre through March 29 with Billy Joe Royal and Lynne Carter.
