

SOVIET JEWS WANT HEBREW GLASSES

NEW YORK (WNS) --Forty-seven Minsk Jews have asked Soviet authorities to initiate evening classes in Hebrew. They said that the right to study and teach Hebrew is "not forbidden" by Soviet law and they "categorically" protested what they said was official harassment of two Jews who had tried to establish an ulpan.

Nineteen prisoners in Camp 19 of the Potman prison in Soviet Mordovia--10 of them non-Jews--went on a hunger strike after some prisoners were not permitted to see visitors.

In Kovno, local Jews were not permitted to hold a class in Hebrew at the local synagogue. When they agreed to hold classes at the Hall of Culture of the local trade union, the Deputy Mayor in charge of cultural affairs offered them a priest as a teacher. When they agreed, they were told they could not hold classes if more than half the students held exit visas for Israel.

From Moscow, it was reported that 20 Jewish families had received visas for Israel.

The community will continue to have a first-rate museum of natural history thanks to the civic-mindedness of the Junior League, Inc. of Las Vegas, who presented a gift of $18,000 to the University.
