tion: "In the first place Deskin should not be singled out as the cause for either complaint." Price maintains it was the commission, not Deskin, who should hear the brunt of the attack. That's his reasoning.

Now let us consider the case of James (Sailor) Ryan, Clark County Commissioner, accused of accepting a bribe. Price has been insisting that Ryan be suspended as a commissioner until his innocence is proven. That's not all.

The brunt of Price's attack is directed at County Commission chairman James Brennan. Says Paul: "James Brennan is weaseling away from a delicate position. Indeed, he has taken no position at all and that is hardly his sworn duty."

Then he goes on with a lot of double talk and quotes of Nevada Revised State Statutes.

"It is all laid out in simple fashion. There apparently is only one driving force, Commissioner James Brennan. His political advertisements bill him as 'Mr. Chairman'. Now we can see if the words match the deeds."

Paul has two standards and its proven here. He says the referees' beef should be directed at the commission, but his beef of the Ryan circumstances is directed NOT AT THE COMMISSION BUT AT BRENNAN PERSONALLY. How do you like that for two-faced reporting?

Price, to all intents and purposes, apparently is far more determined to discredit James Brennan, than to remove Ryan from office. We all know why, of course, Price was defeated by Brennan, when both ran for the post. Price has been taking pot shots at Brennan the past four years. Now Price will do everything and anything to defeat the man who beat him.

An what are the merits of Price's villification program?

It was decided by the District Attorney's office that the only way to legally remove Ryan was by a citizen's suit brought by a registered Democrat in Ryan's district, AND THAT BRENNAN WAS IN NO WAY RESPONSIBLE. That settles it and Price dutifully reported the decree WITHOUT MENTIONING, OR CORRECTING THE INSINUATIONS OF HIS ATTACK ON LUCKY LIGHTNING: A most unusual phenomenon took place at the El Cortez 50 cents slot machines. It was much similar to the story about a Craps shooter at the Sahara during an experimental atom bomb explosion at the Nevada Test Site, 90 miles north of Las Vegas. At the instant the dice rolled a seven-out, the explosion caused a slight tremor to tip one dice over to the point - nine. We don't know if that story is true or a figment of some press agent's imagination. But the El Cortez slot machine story actually did happen, because we saw it take place. There was a heavy electrical, thunder storm in progress. In Las Vegas they usually last for just a few minutes. A woman pulled

BRENNAN.

But you would think that the Sun columnist, or the Sun publisher, or any of the editors, would have the decency to exonerate Brennan. Not a mention was made of all the vile accusations heaped on our County Commission Chairman. Nary a retraction. No sign of apology.

Those are the tricks and deceit employed by Price, Greenspun and the Las Vegas Sun. (GO AS FAR AS POSSIBLE TO RUIN A MAN WITH FALSE ACCUSATIONS. IF PROVEN WRONG MAKE NO EFFORT TO CORRECT THE DAMAGE DONE.)

How can they live with their consciences over there?

Paul said: "I am only a layman lost in the legal jungle."

What he should have said, was: "I am a fraud in the jungle of hate and vengeance."

We say: How long will the public be fooled, and imposed upon by the hoaxes, shams, and humbugs perpetrated regularly by the shameless, impudent, dishonorable, disreputable, wicked, disgusting Las Vegas Sun?"

We urge all readers to call this to the attention of their friends and neighbors and co-workers, to disregard the lies of Paul Price and to judge James Brennan on his record and reputation.

the lever, setting the wheels in motion. There was a tremendous clap of lightning and all the lights went out. The slot machines are electrically controlled, for perhaps two seconds and consequently the wheels stopped. About 4 seconds later the lights went back on. The wheels on the slot machine picked up their instant of motion. They rolled to a stop at a $500 jackpot. How do you like that?

BE KIND TO DEALERS: A dealer at a Strip hotel was having a hard time with a young couple from Miami. The husband was a doctor, who kept making sarcastic remarks at every hand. The dealer asked the M.D. to please play cards and refrain from the disrupting comments. The couple, who was losing, got up and left in a huff. Seconds later a couple of young ladies from St. Louis occupied the same seats. They were very pleasant. Within ten minutes they won $400, thanked and tipped the dealer, and left. There's a moral to this.

NEITHER FLOOD NOR TEAR GAS: A couple of years back there was a cloud burst, directly over the Vegas Valley, which is a huge bowl, surrounded by beautiful mountains. Water filled every crack and cranny, and in one casino, coupled with a huge water main break, had risen to a depth of about one foot. Roulette and "21" players just raised their legs to the top rung of their chairs, but craps shooters kept right on giving regardless of the "heavy dew" up to their calves.

About ten years ago, on Reno's Virginia Street (the casino section is about two blocks long), 1500 University of Nevada students were out for a good time. It was New Years Eve. Police and firemen were called out to curb the rambunctious youngsters. Tear gas bombs were used to keep the students in check. The casinos were jammed. Some of the gas penetrated into the gambling areas. A young couple came out of the elevator from an upper floor. They spotted an elderly lady crying her eyes out, playing a slot machine. "You must be losing a fortune," the young husband said. "If gambling effects you this way, why don't you stop." The elderly lady sobbed, "I'm not losing. I'm winning $200, and I will not give up this machine."
