

SOVIETS RELEASE MORE JEWS

WASHINGTON (WNS) -- In what appears to be an easing of the exit visa restrictions, the Soviet government has granted exit visas to David and Esther Markish, the son and widow of the late Soviet Jewish writer Peretz Markish. Dr. David Korn, chairman of the Soviet Jewry Committee of the Jewish Community Council of Greater Washington, reported that the Markishes were told to leave the Soviet Union by Nov. 6. In New York, the National Conference on Soviet Jewry reported that the two daughters of the late Solomon Mikhoels, head of Moscow's Yiddish State Theatre, have been granted exit visas. Student Struggle for Soviet Jewry also reported that Gavrial Shapiro was reunited with his American wife, Judy Silver Shapiro, in Vienna. Mikhail Kliachin and Julia Smuckler, two Soviet Jewish activists, arrived in Vienna at approximately the same time as Shapiro, according to SSSJ.

Reports from London say that well over 130 Jewish families in a number of Soviet cities have been exempted from paying the education tax during the last two weeks. In a number of provincial towns, Jewish families were told that their applications for a waiver from the fees could not be dealt with locally. They were advised to apply to the central ovir and the Finance Ministry in Moscow.

Dr. Korn also reported that a major revision in the exit fee laws was due.

ISRAEL WILL GIVE MOST OF PRESENT LINE FOR PEACE

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- Yigal Allon, Deputy Premier and Education Minister, has said Israel was prepared for the sake of peace "to give up most of the present armistice lines and accept weaker borders."

He added Israel would not agree to return to the pre-1967 frontiers but would insist only on such boundary adjustments as were absolutely necessary for its security, but stressed that without peace negotiations "we shall not move an inch."
