

JEWISH NEWS BRIEFS

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir told the Cabinet that Israel has poverty but it was not characterized by hunger. He said the government was spending more this year on social services than defense.

NEW YORK (WNS) -- Dr. Bernard Mandelbaum, newly-elected president of the American-Israel Cultural Foundation, has announced the foundation is launching new educational programs as a means of acquainting Americans with "Israel's incredibly rich cultural creativity."

GENEVA (WNS) -- Louis A. Pincus, chairman of the World Zionist Executive, told the Conference of Jewish Organizations (COJO) commission on education that "Israel must do more for diaspora Jewish education and it is our experience that Israel is prepared to do more."

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- The Cabinet has approved cutting Army service for men from 36 to 33 months.

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- The Karen Hayesod hopes to raise some $120 million this year, the largest amount since the Six-Day War.

TEL AVIV (WNS) -- The United States continued to lead the Ninth Maccabiah Games with Israel second, Sweden third, Great Britain fourth and South Africa fifth.

TEL AVIV (WNS) -- Two terrorists convicted of murdering Israeli soldiers and two American tourists have been sentenced to life imprisonment.

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- The cost-of-living rose only 0.3 percent in June, according to government figures.

UNITED NATIONS (WNS) -- Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, who has been meeting with the Israeli and Egyptian Ambassadors to the United Nations, said the results of the consultations could lead to his going to the Middle East.

GENEVA (WNS) -- Dr. Nahum Goldmann, re-elected president of the Conference on Jewish Claims Against Germany, told the group's board of directors meeting that he was "not very optimistic" about his current negotiations with West Germany to extend reparation payments to Jewish victims of Nazism from Eastern Europe who filed their claims after the 1965 deadline on payments.

GENEVA (WNS) -- The Memorial Foundation for Jewish Culture has earmarked $1,807,912 for grants and allocations in fiscal 1973-74.

TEL AVIV (WNS) -- Gen. Ariel Sharon, commander of Southern Command, has retired from the Israeli Army after more than 28 years of service.

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- Sheikh Rashid Khatib, a prominent Arab from Hebron who was deported to Jordan four years ago for anti-Israel activities, returned to the West Bank for a visit and said there was little chance of a separate peace between Jordan and Israel because King Hussein is committed to the other Arab states.

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- A special committee appointed by Labor Minister Yosef Almog has predicted a relatively high surplus of college graduates in the Israeli labor market within the next five years.

WASHINGTON (WNS) -- Forty paintings in oils and watercolors by Soviet Jewish activist Natan Feingold, an unemployed Moscow aeronautical engineer, and 22 watercolors by his 10-year-old daughter, Leah, are being exhibited in Baltimore.

NEW YORK (WNS) -- Israeli Consul General in New York David Rivlin charged in a radio interview that the Arab states are using the energy crisis as a form of extortion against the United States, Western Europe, and Japan.

EL AL FUN TOURS ARE BACK

In this age of doing your own thing, El Al is offering American Jews the chance this summer and fall to discover their roots in Europe. The Israel airline has teamed up with international travel experts to once again offer its highly successful "Jewish Life of Europe" tours in several major cities.

The all-inclusive tour packages feature London, Amsterdam and Paris for two weeks; or London, Madrid, and Paris for two weeks; or London, Rome, Florence, Venice and Paris for two weeks. Prices, including round trip air transportation, hotels and sightseeing, range from $378 to about $1,000 depending on the type of accommodation and tour selected.

The tours attempt to strike a balance between the historic and contemporary aspects of European Jewish existence.

In London, the tour features an orientation tea party where the visitors listen to a local expert and learn something about British Jewish life before being taken to Petticoat Lane and the famous 17th century Bevis Marks Synagogue, built by Sephardic Jews.

Paris has been a city of Jewish settlement since Roman times but little of the Medieval Parisian Jewish existence is in evidence. The tour concentrates on the more modern aspect and offers much of interest, such as the "Rothschild" Synagogue on the Rue de la Victoire.

Amsterdam, which before WWII was largely a Jewish city, is a favorite stop on the Jewish Life itinerary.

In Italy, the ghettos and synagogues of Florence, Rome and Venice are unique and fascinating American Jews.

In Madrid a visit is arranged to the Jewish Center and Synagogue and local residents discuss the revival of Jewish life in Spain, once an important center of Jewish learning and culture. The tour is capped with a delightful snack of Spanish-Jewish delicacies.

For visitors who wish to strike out on their own during free time, a pocket guide is supplied free by El Al to augment the expert guides accompanying tours in each city. The printed guide has been especially prepared by Bernard Postal and Samuel H. Abramson, authors of The Traveler's Guide to Jewish Landmarks of Europe.
