US URGES UN TERRORISM ACTION

UNITED NATIONS (WNS) -- The ad hoc committee on international terrorism began discussing means of combatting terrorism.

The U.S., Britain, France, and Japan among others urged prompt action to deal with the problem.

The U.S. representative, W. Tapley Bennett, said the UN must grapple with the problem and that measures to protect human life would not conflict with "self determination and individual liberty." Tadashi Ohtaka, the Japanese representative, said the recent hijacking of the Japan Air Lines jumbo jet stressed the seriousness of the problem and the urgency for adopting effective measures.

Meanwhile in Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Abba Eban said the hijacking of the jet over Europe and its subsequent destruction by the terrorist in Libya proved the futility of hijacking. He said the fact that the plane went to Libya after it had first landed in the Persian Gulf sheikdom of Dubai proved Libya to be the "pathological capital of the world." Transport Minister Shimon Peres said the hijacking would not have occurred if there had been proper searches of people boarding the Boeing 747 in Amsterdam and Paris.

UNITED NATIONS (WNS) -- The Security Council ended its general review of the Middle East situation with a veto by the United States of an eight-nation draft resolution that deplored Israel's occupation of the territories it has held since 1967 and expressed "serious concern at Israel's lack of cooperation" with Dr. Gunnar V. Jarring, Secretary General Kurt Waldheim's special Mideast representative. Thirteen of the 15 Council members voted in favor of the resolution. The Republic of China did not vote saying it wanted a strong condemnation of Israel.

U.S. Ambassador John Scali, explaining his veto, said the resolution was "unbalanced" and "unrealistic" and would have undermined Resolution 242, which he again called the basic framework for solving the Mideast conflict. Scali had unsuccessfully tried to get the resolution modified so that the U.S. could abstain.

Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah told the Council that the vote "averted grave developments" and it preserves Resolution 242, as the basis on which agreement can be sought. He criticized Egypt for continuing its policy of seeking "to annihilate the Israeli people." Soviet Ambassador Yakov Malik said the vote for the resolution was proof of Israel's international isolation and that Israel attacked the USSR in order to turn American Jews against the Soviet Union. Mohammed el-Zayyat, Egypt's Foreign Minister scored Israel's treatment of Palestinians.

Observers at the UN said the session was a major diplomatic defeat for Egypt which had requested the Middle East review in an attempt to have Israel condemned.

Meanwhile Waldheim is expected to go to the

O'Callaghan Cares

We are firmly convinced that Nevada is the greatest state in the nation, and after careful reflection much of the credit for maintaining our top-rated status must go to Governor Mike O'Callaghan.

Locals may be well aware of our sentiments, but at this time of year when thousands of vacationists and tourists pass through our portals daily, we want to shout for everyone to hear that Nevada and O'Callaghan are the winning combination. No where else, anywhere, may be found free-thinking citizens with the widest latitude of action and personal liberties, who go through their daily routines, safe and secure that the chief executive they elected is in their corner 100 per cent.

O'Callaghan is one of us, who came up through the ranks, not as a politician, but as an everyday citizen. He knows our moods, our reflections, our cares and our desires. As a school teacher and then a police probation officer, he spent years with everyday exposure to trials and tribulations of the little man and his family. This has made Mike a humble man, and he never forgot his compassion.

All this reverence was brought about by a little item we noticed just the past week, one of a series of achievements that have been happening since O'Callaghan became governor at the start of this year. The story noted that three
