

UN'S WALDHEIM ON PEACE MISSION

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- Official sources here have welcomed the announcement by United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim that he will visit the Middle East to try to end the Arab-Israeli deadlock.

Waldheim said he was going to the region at the initial invitation of the Egyptian government and that the Israeli and Jordanian governments had agreed to receive him. He said he would also visit Lebanon, Syria and other countries in the region if their governments agreed.

Israeli officials said they approved of Waldheim's statement that his visit was "to make an assessment of the situation and have face-to-face talks with the various leaders." The Secretary General apparently shares Israel's view that further debates by the Security Council will be futile. He has said that quiet diplomacy might be needed to achieve peace in the region.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

Waldheim's visit, the first to the Middle East by a UN Secretary General since U Thant visited the region in May, 1967, was also favorably greeted in Amman and Cairo. Cairo meanwhile has been seeking international support for its position. Foreign Minister Mohammed el-Zayyat was in Yugoslavia and Austria and President Sadat's personal emissary, Hafez Ismail, spent three days in Moscow. Meanwhile King Hussein of Jordan visited Britain and is scheduled to come to the U.S. He is believed pressing for Western and particularly U.S. support to persuade Israel to make concessions that would allow Jordan to sign a peace treaty.

CAN'T COMPARE JEWS, PALESTINIANS

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- Premier Golda Meir told the Knesset that comparing the situation of the Jewish people and that of the Palestinian Arabs was a "complete distortion".

She said Jews around the world live outside their homeland since Israel is the only country "where the people of Israel can live in Jewish independence."

Mrs. Meir also said Israel would never negotiate with the Arab terrorist organizations.

Travel Sure is the SPECIALIZED travel trailer insurance policy that gives you year 'round protection at an annual low-cost rate. Travel anytime without notifying the company. Includes full-term collision or upset coverage, personal effects coverage and cash vacation expenses allowance at no extra cost. Your greatest insurance BUY!

COME IN! GET THE FACTS!

KAERCHER INSURANCE

384-2813
107 So. 3rd ST.

Still the most meaningful program in town...

Evelyn Newman's

"OPEN LINE"

MONDAY-FRIDAY

9:00-11 A.M.

KVOV RADIO
1280

CONVERSIONS UP IN ISRAEL

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- Religious Affairs Minister Dr. Zerach Warhaftig has promised the Knesset that his Ministry would set up a national rabbinical court this year to handle conversions to Judaism.

Dr. Warhaftig said conversions this year were about one third higher than last year, mainly due to the influx of Soviet immigrants.

He also reported that the Ministry arranged circumcisions for 1,000 children and adults who came from countries where the brit mila could not be performed.

MEL AIRE BRIDAL SHOP has Sportswear!

That's right, Sportswear. Come and see our fine selection in all your favorite styles.

MORE THAN 300 GOWNS IN STOCK

624-626 FREMONT-382-1764

COCKTAIL LOUNGE

Food To Go
AND FREE DELIVERY
(with min. purchase)

Polynesian
Drinks

735-5795
or 735-0248

Free Banquet Room Available

OPEN 4 P.M. TO 4 A.M.
SUNDAYS 4 P.M. TO 1 A.M.

953 East Sahara
in Commercial Center

(6 BLOCKS BEHIND SAHARA HOTEL)

MASTERCARD
BANKAMERICARD

Our 11th Year
For Reservations, Call

384-4470

Featuring...

- PRIME RIBS
- STEAK
- SEA FOOD
- ITALIAN CUISINE
- COCKTAILS
- BANQUETS
- GOURMET DINNERS

Advance Notice required on:

- PHEASANT
- CHUKAR
- QUAIL
- WHOLE GOOSE
- GUINEA HEN
- SUCKLING PIG
- WHOLE LAMB

5 P.M. to 12:30 A.M.

308 W. SAHARA
(2 Blocks West of Sahara Hotel)

The Greatest Name in Dry Cleaning

Country Club Quality at Neighborhood Prices

Arnold Palmer
CLEANING CENTERS

6 Locations

LAS VEGAS' NEWEST

PHONE 732-1555

DAILY and WEEKLY RATES

KING ALBERT MOTEL

(Across from Grand Hotel)

NEAR FABULOUS STRIP
CORNER OF CAESAR'S PALACE
DUNES & FLAMINGO HOTELS

185 ALBERT AVENUE
LAS VEGAS, NEVADA 89109

Color TV •

Kitchenettes •

Heated Pool •

Air Conditioned •

106 Rooms •

Phone in All Rooms •

ASK FOR

JACK RICKS