NEV. NATL. GUARD LOW COLLEGE TUITION

Fall registration figures from the University of Nevada System show 252 members of the Nevada National Guard are taking advantage of a new law regarding tuition for guardsmen, Gov. Mike O'Callaghan announced.

The governor said 146 full time students and 106 part time students have enrolled under a new program through which half the tuition fee for guardsmen is paid by the state of Nevada.

State support for the 252 students totals about $22,700 for the present semester, representing half the total amount of tuition for the students involved.

The governor said 111 full time students at the University of Nevada, Reno, and 41 part-time students there are also members of the Nevada National Guard. "The state is paying approximately $16,000 toward their education which they would have had to pay themselves if they were not guardsmen," the governor said.

Gov. O'Callaghan had asked for the program in his State of The State
