

into the Middle East.

Kissinger said it would be a "step of irresponsibility" to send a unilateral force but he did not believe the USSR has as yet taken that step. He said the U. S. does not consider itself in a state of confrontation with the Soviet Union and still believes the two superpowers can work together to help the Arab states and Israel negotiate a permanent peace. He said the United Nations Security Council resolutions calling for a ceasefire for the first time in 25 years urged negotiations between the parties involved and that the situation now presented an opportunity for "peace with justice."

Kissinger said the U.S. would support setting up an international peacekeeping force in the Mideast as long as it did not contain any of the five permanent members of the Security Council since it would be dangerous to introduce great power (especially nuclear power) rivalries into the Middle East conflict.

Prior to Kissinger's press conference Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D, Wash.) said the Soviet Union had sent a "brutal and threatening warning" to the U. S., saying it would send forces to the Middle East if the U. S. refused to join in a peace-keeping effort there. Jackson said "this is terribly serious" and could bring about a U.S.-Soviet confrontation. "We are right on the brink again," he declared, and urged Americans to get behind President Nixon "in a firm and united stand."

When Kissinger was asked about the Jackson comments he said the Senator was not privy to U.S.-Soviet diplomatic notes. Kissinger said there would be a full disclosure of all diplomatic exchanges after the current situation is resolved.

TERRORISTS CONTINUE ATTACKS

UNITED NATION (WNS) -- Arab terrorists continue their attacks "from Lebanese territory against civilian inhabited localities in Israel," Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah charged in a letter to Secretary General Kurt Waldheim.

Citing 35 attacks during a seven-day period, Tekoah said they were in "coordination with the war of aggression waged by Syria against Israel" and with the complicity of the Lebanese government. "In view of the gravity of these developments, it is to be stressed once again that Lebanon must bear full responsibility for this situation and all its consequences," Tekoah said.

Meanwhile, Israeli forces now control the highest ridge of Mount Hermon which faces the so-called "Fatah land" in Lebanon and have shelled terrorist bases.

OIL WAR CONTINUES

VIENNA (WNS) --- Arab countries have decided to continue their oil wars against Western states despite the truce.

The 11 members of the Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries (OAPEC) decided earlier in Kuwait to cut back oil production by five percent monthly until Israel had withdrawn from all occupied territories and the legal rights of the Palestine people were restored.

Meanwhile both Algeria and Kuwait have announced an oil boycott of Holland for an "hostile attitude toward Arab rights." Holland denied it was pro-Israel.
