WORLD LEADERS MOURN BEN GURION

NEW YORK (WNS) -- President Nixon and American Jewish leaders mourned the death of Former Israeli Prime Minister David Ben Gurion.

Nixon praised Ben Gurion as a man who worked with courage, love and determination to establish the modern State of Israel. He said the example of Ben Gurion increased his conviction that the cause of peace and justice will triumph in the Middle East.

Paul Zuckerman,

general chairman of the United Jewish Appeal, said that Ben Gurion's "life should stand -- especially at this critical moment in history -- as a beacon of inspiration to us all." He added that UJA "rededicates itself to the continuing fulfillment of Ben Gurion's vision to build in the promised land a land of promise for those oppressed and in need."

Dr. Nahum Goldman, president of the World Jewish Congress, in a telegram to Ben Gurion's son, Amos, declared: "Your father was the most influential, most authoritative and most creative leader of our generation. He not only was decisive in creating the State but succeeded as very few other historical personalities to shape the image of the state and mold the thinking and psychology of the people of Israel.

In Paris, President Georges Pompidou said Ben Gurion's death "marks the loss of a man who beyond political positions of governments, sharply marked the destiny" of Israel.

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- Deputy Premier Yigal Allon has rejected the view that a peace treaty with the Arabs would be valueless, noting that with "the bitter relations in the area there is tremendous value in a written contract." He told a symposium at the Van Leer Institute here that the forthcoming peace conference in Geneva Dec. 18, would have more chance to succeed if Israel could negotiate separately with each Arab country.

Meanwhile Defense Minister Moshe Dayan told visiting delegates from the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations that even if the cease-fire broke down the conference has a chance to pave the way for peace if Israel was careful not to forgo anything vital to its future. While praising U.S. military aid, Dayan said he hoped the U.S. would not attempt to dictate Israel's security frontiers, since in the absence of these frontiers, any peace proposed would be unstable and doubtful.

But Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the American Jewish leaders that Israel's pre-war "security doctrine" had failed and that all policies that rested on it had to be revised. "We should not abandon the idea of strategic depth, Eban said, "but there is a versatile range of methods which can be achieved -- sometimes, but not always, by territorial change."

Eban said the peace conference would be a prolonged effort, somewhat like the Vietnam talks in Paris.

Earlier Eban told a 30-member delegation from the Israel Bond Organization that if the Arabs agree to a full peace implying diplomatic relations, economic and commercial contacts

Oil for Arms

While it is apparent the latest weapon for Russian world conquest is Arab oil, there is something about the Arab oil blackmail which does not add up.

Arabs have led the world to believe all they wanted was the return of their occupied land. The oil shortage was created to have countries faced with energy crisis pressure pressure Israel into acceding to Arab demands. But blackmailers, who are in a position to call the shots, never stop when their first demands are met.

Already France is about to sell Libya Mirage F-1 fighter bombers and nuclear weapons. Saudi Arabia's Shiekh Yamani headed Arab spokesmen who declared, "oil-hungry European states cannot deny us arms," with the added threat, "----their whole economy will definitely collapse all of a sudden."

This is what we cannot comprehend. Why do the Arabs need arms from European countries?

The Soviet Union, employing the greatest air lift in history, is continuing to supply Arab countries with the costliest of most modern war equipment, including the most sophisticated missiles and latest model tanks, weapons which have not yet been supplied to their own Russian divisions. Many of these modern T-62 tanks have been captured and converted to use by Israel. But they are continued to be airlifted by Russia in large quantities. Experts have declared that Syria has more tanks than the combined forces of France and Britain.

The most significant of sophisticated weapons delivered by the Communists to the Arabs are the heavy nuclear bombardment rockets already fitted with fission warheads. The Arabs already have 30 of these, each with the destructive power of the Atom bomb on Hirashima in 1945.

There is much talk about Russian "detente," which is an all-inclusive word for understanding and desire for world peace. It is difficult for a reasonable man to assimilate Russian "detente" and its overwhelming desire to annihilate Israel. This is discernable by the limitless Soviet supply to the Arabs of the most effective weapon in the 1973 war.
