

TEL AVIV - More than 18,000 portions of blood were collected from the people of Israel by Magen David Adom (MDA), Israel's Red Cross Service, during the first eight days of War. Tens of thousands of would-be donors were asked to donate blood at a later date, in order to ensure a continuous supply of fresh blood. Because of this tremendous response two days after the war began, MDA requested American Red Magen David for Israel to halt blood collections in the U.S.A.
