"THEY CHOSE LIFE"

ST. LOUIS...Refuting claims that almost all European Jews went unresisting to their deaths in the Nazi Holocaust, a new booklet, "They Chose Life," chronicles the actions of men, women, and children who, despite overwhelming odds, attempted to strike back at their oppressors.

Illustrated with photographs from the ghettos, slave-labor factories, and concentration camps of the Hitler period, the 64-page booklet offers a brief review of the major events in Hitler's program to annihilate the Jews; an analysis of the activities and rationales of Jewish Councils, the Nazi-sponsored Jewish ghetto governments; and a chronicle of Jewish heroes, some as young as four and five years old, whose resistance to Nazi tyranny ranged from smuggling and sabotage to guerrilla fighting.

The booklet is written by Hehuda Bauer, a native of Czechoslovakia who emigrated to Palestine in 1939, and who is now Head of the Institute of Contemporary Jewry at Hebrew University, Jerusalem, and in charge of its Department of Holocaust Studies. It is co-published by the American Jewish Committee and the Institute for Contemporary Jewry, and was introduced at the annual meeting of AJC's National Executive Council, continuing through Sunday at the Riverfront Inn here.

"They Chose Life" is available, at $1.25 a copy, from the AJC's Institute of Human Relations, 165 East 56 Street, New York, N.Y. 10022.

In an introduction to the text, Bertram H. Gold, AJC's Executive Vice President, declares that the collection of data on the Holocaust is "one of the most pressing responsibilities of Jews today."

"A whole new generation wants and needs to know about it," he writes. "For one of the lessons of history is that what happened once to a group of people can happen again, to the same group or another; and the technology available for genocide is advancing."

NEW YORK! Harold M. Jacobs, President of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America expressed appreciation to President Nixon for his steadfast support for Israel.
