JEWISH COMMUNITY CENTER NEWS

BY STEVE HERMAN

The Jewish Community Center sponsored the Las Vegas Handball Handicap Tournament, which was held Feb. 20 through 23. Final results have not yet been announced, but top Southern Nevada handball players such as O'Conner, Cola, Bass, and Smaka are sure to be right up there at the top.

A pretty good turn out and music by the band "Southwind" made the Jewish Youth Councils first dance quite a success. The dance was held last Sat. night from 8 to 12 in the recreation center. Center Sec'y, Jane Anglese, is sad to announce that she will be leaving her position as Center secretary to become the secretary for the Focus program. Jane has been the sec'y since the beginning of the Center in 1971. Jane's hard working efforts and devotion to the Center will be hard to match.

It is a real pleasure to call attention to an adorable woman currently visiting Las Vegas. She is a veritable ball of fire and a pulmotor of enthusiasm for all of her 70 years. More than all of that, she has constructive suggestions for the handicapped and senior citizens. Among many other notable contributions to humanity, she has compiled a list of seven ideas for the elderly and insecure to be active and meet the daily challenge of their able-bodied friends and neighbors. In order to fully appreciate this dear person so full of life and loaded with vitality, you have to meet her or call her on the phone. She is Mrs. Leon Berger of Straudsburg, Pa. presently stopping at the King Albert Motel. She's one person you will want to meet. J.T.

Twenty-six upperclassmen and graduate students from Las Vegas have been initiated into Phi Kappa Phi national honor society in recent ceremonies on the campus of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. The featured speaker at the event was State Sen. Chic Hecht, who praised the students for their academic achievements and urged them to get involved in public affairs for the good of their community and nation.
