

100 RABBIS ORGANIZE NEW GROUP

CINCINNATI (WNS) -- Claiming an "increasing preoccupation" by Reform organizations "with appeasing the Orthodox and Conservative establishments," more than 100 Reform rabbis have organized in a new group called an Association for a Progressive Reform Judaism.

The new group, organized at a meeting in St. Louis, derives from a dissident group formed in Atlanta in June 1973 in protest against a resolution adopted by the 1973 convention of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, the association of Reform rabbis, which opposed participation by CCAR members in mixed marriages.

Dr. Eugene Mihaly, professor of rabbinic literature at the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion, the Reform seminary, has been elected president of the new group.

The sponsors asserted that there was a "tendency" in some Reform organizations to "restrict the freedom which Reform Judaism came into being to promote and preserve" and that these organizations were failing to address "the problems and concerns of the Reform constituency." They pledged efforts "to support and advance the freedom and creativity inherent in the genius of American Reform Judaism" and "to strengthen the role of laymen in the decision-making process of Reform Judaism as regards education, liturgy, ritual and the like."

PARIS (WNS) -- A group of unidentified vandals wrecked a synagogue in a suburb of Paris, overturning the Holy Ark, trampling on Torah scrolls and stealing several collection boxes.
