Arab Baloney

Why are all the crocodile tears being shed about giving back to the poor Arabs the land they need so desperately?

Almost the whole world is condemning Israel, mainly because the multi-million dollar Arab propaganda machine is beginning to sway people away out of proportion. "All we want is our land back," is the plea. It is nothing more than a lot of Arab baloney.

The Arabs didn't want their land back in 1948 when they attacked without provocation immediately after the U.N. declared Israel a nation. "Get out," they encouraged the Arab inhabitants, "and within days you will move back after the Jews have been driven into the sea."

To the amazement of the world the Jews, outnumbered 1000 to 1, with no arms and little organization, resisted and defended their new country. It wasn't a question of land at the time. It was a bloodthirsty political move by Arab leaders, who lied and were traitors to their own people, in a grab for personal power and wealth. The innocent Arab population fell for it and have been on the losing end since.

The Arabs, who displaced themselves, believing in their leaders, wound up in tent camps after being refused admittance and integration in Arab countries. The biggest double cross in history, involving millions. Now, a generation later, they are the Palestinians, demanding recognition as an independent nation.

Israel was the first and only nation to realize the plight of the Palestinians and attempted in every way to resolve the problem. It was the Arab leaders who insisted on keeping the Palestinians confined. Boy, will that backfire in time to come.

When the Palestinians turned terrorists, with absolutely no restraint but actual encouragement from the so-called respectable Arab countries, Israel had to retaliate. For this the world, and the U.N. condemns Israel. Hogwash.

The Arabs attacked again in 1955. They weren't looking for land then, Arab leaders stirred up emotions with the one and only intent, to drive the Jews into the sea. The Jews refused to be driven.

In 1967, the 6-Day war, Israel, tired of having the Arab borders within cannon range of Tel Aviv and Jerusalem, removed that threat. Most of the land occupied was barren desert. Under Israeli ambition, coupled with sweat, tears and indefatigable determination,

SYRIA, ISRAEL WANT POLITICAL SETTLEMENT

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim told newsmen here that in his talks with Syrian and Israeli officials he was certain both sides wanted a political settlement and believed there was a relaxation of tension.

Waldheim met with Syrian and Israeli officials on the extension of the mandate of the United Nations Disengagement Observer

Force. Before leaving Israel for Cairo, he cabled the Security Council that both sides had agreed to a six months extension of the UNDOF mandate.

But Israel maintains its state of alert on the Golan Heights until the Security Council formally approves the extension. Syria had withheld its approval of the extension until Waldheim met with its leaders in Damascus.

Waldheim told newsmen in Israel that President Hafez Assad told him "Syria does not want war." He said Syria wants a political settlement

"but they cannot wait forever to get a political settlement." During his visit to Jerusalem, Waldheim met with Premier Yitzhak Rabin, Foreign Minister Yigal Allon and Defense Minister Shimon Peres.

Israel, meanwhile, is concerned about the evacuation by the Austrian UNDOF contingent of the 9000-foot Mt. Hermon peak which is uninhabitable during winter. Israelis are concerned that the Syrian forces can now reach the peak by way of a road built in violation of the disengagement agreement.
