

CONSTRUCTIVE SETTLEMENT OF REFUGEE PROBLEM

UNITED NATIONS contributions to the (WNS) -- Israeli United Nations Relief Ambassador Jacob and Works Agency for Doron told the Special Palestine (UNRWA) that Political Committee on after 25 years "the time has come to take a fresh look" at the Palestine refugee problem "and prepare the way for constructive settlement, in the framework of peace and regional and international cooperation."

Doron charged that the Arab states perpetuated the refugee problem to use against Israel and said they should end UNRWA's perpetual deficit "by assigning for this purpose a tiny fraction of one percent of their oil income."

The U. S. representative said the American pledge of $24.94 million for the next fiscal year will be increased to $26.8 million if Congress approves. He hinted that the oil-rich Arab states increased their share of the burden. Saudi Arabia gave $650,000 last year and Libya $600,000. Israel's contribution was $625,000.

FORD SAYS MIDEAST SITUATION SERIOUS

WASHINGTON, D. C. (WNS) -- President Ford has described the Middle East situation as potentially very serious.

As published in a nation-wide magazine, Ford said, "It ought to be obvious to everybody that we can not go on indefinitely with the very delicate circumstances that exist between Israel and Egypt, Israel and Jordan, Israel and Syria -- or fail to take into account the legitimate interests of the Palestinian people." He added: "We have the problem of the potentiality that if there were a new confrontation between the Israelis and the Arabs, we could face the possibility of another oil embargo and the United States and the Soviet Union could also become somehow involved."

Meanwhile, the White House has declined to clarify Ford's remarks last week in which he told a press conference in Phoenix, Arizona that the U.S. "is trying to get the Israelis to negotiate a settlement or additional settle-ISRAELITE ments with the Egyptians and other Arab nations," and then said that Israel should negotiate with the Egyptians and "other Arab parties." To some, the phrase "other parties" implied the inclusion of the Palestine Liberation Organization. This implication was suggested by Ford's statement last month at a press conference in Washington where he said that negotiations should be held between Israel and Syria.

PHILADELPHIA -- Judge Paul Ribner, of Philadelphia, National Commander of the Jewish War Veterans of U.S.A., called upon Congress to withhold any commitment to the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization "because this representative world body long in the forefront of the UN struggle for progress and advancement for all nations of the world has now become a political tool of the Palestine Liberation Organization."
