

ISRAEL BOYCOTTS UNESCO

PARIS (WNS) -- In the first opportunity Israel had to express its disapproval of UNESCO's anti-Israeli resolutions, Israeli experts boycotted the opening session of a UN-Educational Conference. "I don't think we're going to do anything much more with UNESCO," one of the Israelis said.

Earlier scientists scheduled to participate in a UNESCO chemistry symposium did not appear and three of them publicly condemned UNESCO's decisions against Israel.

In London, 13 prominent intellectuals denounced the UN action and said they would boycott the UN body until it reversed its anti-Israel attitude.

In Washington, the Senate ruled out American financial support for UNESCO until it restores Israel to her rightful place. The Upper House of the Swiss Parliament voted to decrease Switzerland's contribution by 10 percent.

Meanwhile, in Brussels, the National Catholic Commission for Jewish-Christian Affairs, criticized the Vatican for awarding the Pope John XXIII Peace Prize to UNESCO saying that coming after UNESCO's anti-Israeli decisions the award "takes on a very political context."

Earlier in New York, Rabbi Arthur Hertzberg, president of the American Jewish Congress, expressed "regret" that the Vatican had presented its international prize to UNESCO. Rabbi Hertzberg made his remarks to 800 persons attending the AJCongress' annual Stephen S. Wise award dinner at which Charles Bronfman of Montreal and Edgar Bronfman of New York were honored for the leadership in civic and Jewish affairs. Rabbi Hertzberg expressed gratification that the Vatican dissociated itself with UNESCO's anti-Israel move but regretted that the award was presented to UNESCO "despite world-wide protests."

THE AJCongress and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith had earlier cabled the Pope asking that the award be withdrawn. Rabbi Hertzberg in his address, hailed the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for recommending the withholding of U.S. funds for UNESCO. The ADL and the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations also praised the committee action and particularly lauded Sen. Clifford Case (R. N.J.) for introducing the amendment to withhold the $16 million US grant for UNESCO.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. -- Agudath Israel of America urged "the leadership of the State of Israel to accept its current isolation in the international arena as a signal that relief from its problems can only come from a whole-hearted return to eternal Jewish values."
