HAMMES, BLOOM WEDDING

DR. AND MRS. DAVID MARSHALL BLOOM

Miss Hilary Hammes, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Jack Hammes, of 1621 San Pedro, became the bride of Dr. David Marshall Bloom, son of Mr. & Mrs. Harry Bloom, of Los Angeles.

The wedding ceremony was performed by Rabbi Philip Shnaitson and Cantor Joseph Kohn accompanied with the wedding nuptials. The sanctuary was beautifully decorated with the canopy as the central point of interest, covered with greenery punctuated with yellow chrysanthemums, yellow roses and white carnations. The canopy was flanked by huge baskets of flowers, again all in yellow and white. The pew bows on each end accented the white runner.

As the bride proceeded down the aisle on the arm of her father, the concluding strains of "Sunrise, sunset" was being sung by David London.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white silk, medieval style with a train and long sleeves, cuffed in pearls. The high neckline also trimmed in pearls captured a design, triangular that was caught below the bosom in empire effect. The veil was carried by a cap of pearls. The cascade she carried was of yellow and white roses.

The maid of honor, Norma Rodsky, was dressed in mint green and carried a bouquet that matched the flowers in her hair. The mother of the bride, Babe Hammes, and mother of the groom, Ida Bloom, also wore pastel green gowns and corsages of white orchids.

Following the ceremony there was a wedding reception and wet bar, and hors d'oeuvres. On the other side of the room was a champagne fountain and wedding cake. The cake was in six tiers, eight feet high with a fountain of champagne running through the bottom layer. The base of the cake was surrounded by four cakes, each heart shaped.

David Burton and his musicians entertained through the evening. In his own inimitable manner he acted as master of ceremonies, sang, introduced the dignitaries and led the traditional dancing.

The young couple left the following day for a two week honeymoon in Hawaii. Upon their return, Dr. Bloom will resume his internship at Los Angeles County General Hospital, and they will temporarily reside in Los Angeles.
