

TELL TALES

may have forgotten, but we remember vividly, early in the 1972 election campaign, Greenspun, who never misses a trick to get into the act to show his own importance, managed to drop a hint to Nixon aides and possibly Jack Anderson, a part owner of the Sun, that he, Greenspun, had "damaging evidence" against front running Democratic Presidential candidate Edmund Muskie. The plumbers were alerted, but the "damaging evidence" turned out to be the false reports circulated by Nixon's own tricksters, which Greenspun, himself, admitted. Then, the talk and any preparation to break into the safe was dropped by the conspirators. But Greenspun kept playing it to the hilt, bragging about scratches on his safe door, which Greenspun had painted out. The "Theory" about the memos came later.

The subordinate, who Greenspun does not mention in Time is obviously Robert Maheu. The "mystery" Time quotes as to how Greenspun got the memos, is no mystery at all. The memos were from Hughes to Maheu. Remember the $50,000 "LOAN" from Greenspun to Maheu, which was never repaid, although Maheu was earning $10,000 - a - week salary at the time, with all expenses paid and a half million dollar home for living quarters.

Time also stated: "he, (Greenspun) refuses to publish them (the memos.)"

This is a bald-faced lie. Greenspun has already published many of the memos, and he will continue to publish them, whenever, and wherever he feels they will do him, personally, the most good. Like the last one that appeared not too long ago, covering more than 1/2 of Page 1. It was during the trial brought by Hughes to recover the $4,000,000 cash loaned to Greenspun.

The memos published so far proved absolutely nothing, except as being hand-written by a news-worthy figure like Howard Hughes, and use of an incidental four - letter word any recluse boss would write in corresponding with an employee. Greenspun's attempt to cloak the memos in secrecy and use them as a form of blackmail, has so far, fallen flat on its face.

In conclusion, we do not begrudge Greenspun his millions. His conscience will handle that in the long run. But we will not allow Greenspun or anyone else to build a halo about himself founded on untruths.

MIKE WALLACE REBROADCAST A SHAM

NEW YORK (WNS) -- The CBS rebroadcast of its February "10 Minutes" television portrayal of the conditions of Syrian Jewry has not satisfied the American Jewish Congress.

The AJCongress said the second program included references to complaints about the original program but the network's reply was "inadequate, self-serving and grudging at best." The AJCongress, which filed a complaint with the National News Council, a non-profit agency which investigates complaints about the media, said in a letter to the news council that its original complaint "stands, and we look forward to a finding in support of our charges by the National News Council."

Meanwhile the Committee for the Rescue of Syrian Jewry said that it will also file a complaint with the news council.

The AJCongress said the only way to redress the balance caused by the programs was for Wallace to interview a Syrian Jew who had recently escaped from that country.

How to read your own
Electric Meter
(And why you should)

The electric meter on your home measures the amount of electricity you use. Your power company reads your meter each month and translates usage into dollars and cents by subtracting the current month's reading from the previous month's. It's not difficult to read your own meter. Here's how:

Your meter has either four or five dials. Start at the one on the left and then read each of them from left to right.

The correct reading is indicated by the pointer on each dial. Always select the lower of the two numbers as the reading when the pointer is between numbers. (Except where the pointer is between 9 and 0. In this case, read it as 9.)

That's all there is to it. Here's an example, where the correct reading is 79484:

Get in the habit

In addition to having a check on our meter reading accuracy, you can make this practice pay off in your efforts to keep your power bill down. By frequent readings (daily or weekly) you'll be able to see the immediate results of your energy-savings measures. You can use these readings to involve the whole family in your conservation effort. Many of our customers have been doing this for some time and they've told us that frequent meter readings is the best step they've taken to help lower power use.

If you want more information on how to keep your power bills down, write for our new booklet on the subject. Address: "Booklet," Nevada Power Company, Box 230, Las Vegas 89151. Or, you may pick one up at any of our offices. Or, call 385-5011 and we'll be pleased to send you a copy.

If you'd like to get a group of friends and neighbors together (perhaps a civic or social organization you belong to), we'll be glad to have one of our energy conservation specialists address the gathering and answer any questions you may have. Drop us a note, or call 385-5753.

Meanwhile, please make conservation a habit. Electricity costs too much to waste any longer.
