lar honor for a man who must be dedicated, capable, and able to devote endless hours for those important meetings and decisions.

Oscar Goodman, the new President of Temple Beth Sholom, is certainly dedicated to all phases of public enlightenment, serving the Nevada Drug Abuse Council as an advisor for the advocate for Youth Alternatives Program, as a director of Boys Club of Clark County and an active participant in the Las Vegas Combined Jewish Appeal.

His capabilities need only be measured by his success as a lawyer. Oscar, at 36, is unquestionably the most outstanding defense attorney in the whole state of Nevada. He wins case after case, even the impossible ones.

Where Oscar gets the time to devote to his duties as President of our temple, we'll never know. But we do know that time is the lawyer's stock in trade, and therefore his personal sacrifices to lead our congregation, certainly are without congregation will assemble in the main Sanctuary for the Silichot Services conducted and officiated by the Rabbi. The Cantor will chant the liturgy accompanied by the Temple Adult Choir with Anthony Thomas conducting and Martha Olson at the organ.

But the caption under the photo will say something about her being charter president of Women's American ORT in Las Vegas, which now has a membership of 460. Or it will tell about Elizabeth as a chairman of Women's Division U.J.A., raising more than $100,000. Or it could be any of a dozen other chores calling for muchtime, hard work and organizational effort in behalf of Judaism.

Her husband Dennis and their two children delight in Elizabeth's benevolent activities, as much as they admire her prowess as a skier and tennis player.

We tip our hat to his lovely wife, Carolyn, and their four children, who relinquish their husband and daddy to serve the Jewish community.

And we name Oscar Goodman a most deserving Man of the Year.
