

ISRAEL MUST NOT LET SYRIA TAKE LEBANON

NEW YORK, N.Y. -- Israel must not let Syria take over Lebanon "because it would be a direct threat to us," said Knesset member Menahem Begin, who addressed leaders of the Zionist Organization of America. Mr. Begin and Yosef Tamir, both Knesset members and leaders of the Likud opposition, spoke before the ZOA on the eve of their return to Israel.

Commenting on the United Nations resolution equating Zionism with racism Mr. Begin said that the time is now very favorable to state Israel's case in the United States "to prove who the racists are." Mr. Begin noted that it has been a long, long time since a U.N. resolution whose purpose was "meant to bring harm to Israel has met with such adverse reaction in the media and in Washington."

While Mr. Begin welcomed U.S. aid, he said that "if we want to live our own life and have our own destiny, we must change our own system of life economically and socially so that we will be less dependent on foreign aid, militarily and economically."

TERRORISTS KILL 3 YESHIVA STUDENTS

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- In a cold-blooded attack, terrorists shot and killed three 19-year-old yeshiva students on a night raid this week into Ramat Hagshamin, a religious settlement in the Golan Heights, wounding two others, one only slightly. The killers, reportedly members of the El Fatah gang, entered a house on the northern section of the settlement and immediately started shooting with small arms and tossing hand grenades. The killers abducted Shalom Mocha of Jerusalem, apparently planning to take him to the Syrian border nearby. But Mocha managed to break free and fled. He was slightly wounded but reached safety. He was taken to Haifa hospital where his condition was reported satisfactory. The victims were all student-soldiers at the settlement's Hesder yeshiva, a program in which young men can study Torah and perform national service at the same time. The three dead men were Sgt. Ben-Zion of B'nai Brak, Nahum Fenigstein of Jerusalem and Michael Nadler of Jerusalem.
