

OF THE STARS

same notch on the music charts.

"The Fifth Avenue Country Boy" Ben Sanders, featured comedian for the preceding edition of CMUSA has been held over and continues to bring audiences from titillation to tears with his slow, easy-going delivery that creates an anticipation throughout the crowd which is relieved only by near-hysteria.

Susan Haney, truly one of the most beautiful girls in country music, is featured vocalist in the c & w revue, returning for the second time, having appeared with Van Dyke in the first edition.

Co-stars of the showcase for the sound that is rapidly becoming the most popular form of music today are The Plainsmen, country and spiritual quartet with over 25 albums and many number one singles to their credit. Their latest release, "Love Somebody Today" was written for them by one of the members of The Auctioneers band, Jimmy Johnstone.

The Leroy Van Dyke Show runs through December 7.

X-rated comedy superstar Buddy Hackett is back at Del Webb's Hotel Sahara for a Thanksgiving Holiday stand, through November 29.

And joining Hackett for his brief and sure-to-be-SRO engagement is his newest protege, blind singing star Tom Sullivan.

Hackett, the holder of every Congo Room attendance mark, is sure to add to his crowd counts this engagement, as the town is full for the holiday weekend.

His style of humor is classic -- especially his method of weaving several stories around each other. And if a story takes a slightly risqué twist or includes a three-or-four letter word, it only seems to add to the fun for his overflow audiences.

Most of Hackett's fans are in the room because they appreciate his unique brilliance -- his ability to change material with every performance. (Some admit they have seen him ten or twelve times!) Even his classic routines differ considerably from show to show, leading to the notion that Buddy does a different show each night.

Rounding out the Sahara entertainment line-up are the long-running nude revue, Pinups, Sidro's Armada and Holiday in Greece in the Casbar Theatre Lounge and the exciting Arthur Lyman Show in Don the Beachcomber.

Hackett and Sullivan will headline at the Sahara through November 29.

(at the Union Plaza), has two of her current films in release now and both are cleaning up at the boxoffice. A doctor, rushed to the hotel, diagnosed Joan's illness as either a touch of food poisoning or a sudden 24 hour intestinal flu. Joan had to stay an extra night at the Grand 'til she was well enough to travel....CHICAGO JOE'S, the new Italian restaurant at 4th & Charleston, got a million dollar plug from SHECKY GREENE, on stage at the MGM....Las Vegas Sun scribe (and also KSHO-TV and KLAV radio personality) JOE DELANEY is putting the finishing touches on his recently completed film documentary titled "JOE DELANEY'S IRELAND - FAMILY STYLE" for possible network airing.
