LEROY VAN DYKE IS COUNTRY CHARMER IN "COUNTRY MUSIC"

LEROY

"Country Music the U.S.A." in the Landmark Hotel's Jubilee Showroom headlines charming country gentleman LeRoy Van Dyke with his band The Auctioneers for this its 10th edition. Co-starring with Van Dyke are The Plainsmen with Susan Haney and Ben Sanders. Famous all over the world for his

million-sellers, "The Auctioneer" (penned by the true-life auctioneer himself) and "Walk on By," LeRoy has also released another tripple-tonguer during this engagement, "Who's Gonna Run The Truck Stop in Tuba City" which should make the same impression on the national music charts.

With country music becoming more and more popular all over the world, Van Dyke's "Big Wide Wonderful World of Country Music" is ringing ever true as the country/western musical showcase continues to make believers out of the most avid

The Plainsmen, country & spiritual quartet, can only present a small sampling of the many tunes requested of them -- tunes from over 25 albums they have released during their career; a career which had its beginning back on the old "Louisiana Hayride" show when the quartet was working with Governor Jimmy Davis of Louisiana.

Beauty is brought forth by Susan Haney, a gentle female charmer who has been touring with the LeRoy Van Dyke show for the past two years. The former Miss Atkins, Arkansas is not only one of the most glamorous singers on the country scene, she's one of the most talented.

Ben Sanders, who claims "You'd better laugh, I don't have a day job," needn't really ask, because from the time he hits the stage the audience belongs to "The Fifth Avenue Country Boy." In strong competition with Ben the Funny Man is Ben the Singer, as he mesmerizes the audience

LeRoy Van Dyke closes Sunday, December 7. Opening December 26 - Barbara Fairchild.
