

OPPOSITION MOUNTS

Israel is not opposed to the U.S. improving its relations with Egypt. "Israel has not objected to the development of political, economic and technological ties between the U.S. and Egypt," he said, "but when it comes to the sensitive field of a military supply relationship Israel views it with great concern and sees in it a dangerous course of action."

State Department spokesman Robert Funseth said the Administration was discussing with Congress and the Israeli government the "whole general question...of what it should do in the situation" in which Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has decided "not to be dependent on the Soviet Union for military equipment." He said that Ford had not yet sent Congress the required letter of determination formally advising it of the proposed sale of the C-130s. He said the C-130s were the only "specific" military equipment currently being contemplated for sale to Egypt. However, he noted that the Administration has talked to Congress and the Israelis about the "general categories of kinds of military equipment that might be considered" for shipment to Egypt.

Meanwhile, Rep. William Broomfield (R, Mich) said Ford has indicated to him he "would not back off" from beginning a U.S., military supply relationship with Egypt. Ford told a group of radio interviewers that the sale of the transport planes would not upset the military balance of power between Israel and Egypt. Meanwhile Sens. Jacob K. Javits (R, NY), Clifford P. Case (R, NJ) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D, Minn) have proposed that Egypt buy directly from the Lockheed Corporation rather than from the Pentagon making it a civilian rather than a military sale.

U.S. BANKS, FIRMS AIDING ARAB BOYCOTT

NEW YORK (WNS) -- Seymour Graubard, national chairman of the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League, has declared that reliance on voluntary compliance with the Administration's anti-boycott policy has failed.

He said "new, strong legislation which bans American participation in the Arab boycott is essential." He made his statement as the ADL charged that "more than 200 U.S. corporations and 25 major commercial banks, many in alliance with Arab American Chambers of Commerce, are waging economic war against Israel in collaboration with the Arabs." Describing the group as a "who's who of American banking and industry," the ADL said "they are in flagrant disregard of U.S. anti-boycott policy with the banks also flouting Federal Reserve Board warnings against participation in the boycott."

Among the banks named by the ADL as processing boycott-tainted letters of credit are six of the nation's largest financial institutions -- Bankers Trust, Chase Manhattan, Chemical Bank, First National City and Morgan Guaranty Trust Company, all of New York, and the Bank of America, San Francisco. Among firms cited for submitting to Arab restrictions are: Aramco, Bausch and Lomb, General Mills, Ingersoll-Rand, Pillsbury and Rubatex. Some 200 corporations named by the ADL are members of the Arab American Chambers of Commerce and are charged by it with "serving as Arab boycott agents on American soil." The ADL charges were based on findings of a national field investigation under the Direction of Benjamin

R. Epstein, the ADL's national director, and Arnold Forster, its general counsel.
