security to all Lebanese groups and maintains the independence, territorial integrity and national unity of the country.

Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld, who conferred with the King, told reporters that Hussein intends to support Syrian Armed intervention into Lebanon to maintain the balance and separate the warring factions.

"The Syrians wouldn't remain a moment longer than necessary," he stated. "The saving of Lebanon should be in everyone's interest."

His Majesty also warned Israel against attempting to counter a Syrian intervention. "If Israel moves in," he said, "an eruption would occur in the entire area."

Sources here indicate that Hussein tried to convince both the Ford Administration and Congress to support Syrian troop intervention as the wisest strategy to restore stability in Lebanon.

The King of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan and Queen Alia were welcomed by President and Mrs. Ford at the South Lawn of the White House last Tuesday.

The King and the President conferred for 75 minutes to discuss the situation in Lebanon. The two leaders agreed, according to a statement, on the need for both a ceasefire and a basic political solution that gives adequate opportunity and
