

LANDMARK HOTEL IS "MUSIC COUNTRY" WITH TEX WILLIAMS, ROY HEAD

It's "Music Country" in the Landmark's Jubilee Showroom now through June 13 where country recording artist and performer Tex Williams headlines the room with special guest star Roy Head. Also a part of the country jubilee are Roy's band, the Wild Bunch, Ben Sanders, Skip De Vol and Joyce Webb.

TEX

Tex Williams, one of the best-known and best-loved entertainers in the country field, graces a stage with his charm, personality and deep, rich baritone voice. Perhaps best known for his million-seller "Smoke, Smoke, Smoke," the 30-year veteran has also starred in 24 Universal pictures, had his own weekly television show and guest starred on more than 200 television shows. His latest album on the Granite label "Those Lazy, Hazy Days," was reviewed by Billboard Magazine as "one of the finest albums released this year (1975) without qualification."

Making his first appearance in a Las Vegas main room, Roy Head is country music's "Mr. Electricity." A rock and roll star of the 1960's with a 2 million seller to his credit, "Treat Her Right" the good-looking showman, during that period, made appearances and tours with Paul Revere and The Raiders, Bo Diddley, Jerry Lewis and others as well as being seen on television's "Joey Bisho Show," "American Bandstand" and "Shindig." In 1974, Roy headed back to the country, where he scored his first hit, "Baby's Not Home." Then followed "Help Yourself to

Me." "I'll Take It," "Most Wanted Woman In Town" and "The Door I Used to Close." Both of the latter appeared in the topten on the national country charts. The dynamic entertainer nearly tears up the stage with his dancing/acrobatic abilities, (the "Alligator" dance of the 60's was branded as his) gyrations, microphone maneuvers and sex appeal. His total involvement in his performance is making him a positive for the next country superstar. Ben Sanders, "The Fifth Avenut Country Boy" had very well better pitch his tent in Las Vegas where he is becoming one of the most favorite comics about town. His slow, easy-going delivery and incredible punch lines, make everyone in the audience want to try the same, (many are overheard repeating his routine as they leave the room) while his beautiful singing voice only adds double strength to his presentation.

Skip De Vol, banjo picker with an astounding ability to introduce a whole new concept of what the instrument can produce, returns with his fleet fingers -- flying so fast they're almost invisible -- and original renditions to make this his eleventh Jubilee room appearance.

Joyce Webb, singer/composer wrote songs which were recorded by Eddy Arnold, Sammy Davis, Jr. and Buddy Grecco before releasing her own biggest hit "Sing A Rainbow."
