Israel on Offensive

By Rabbi Samuel Silver

Remember that candidate who said to his rival, "If you promise not to tell lies about me I promise not to tell the truth about you."

The Arab spokesmen are telling lies about Israel. At conferences on housing or culture, they are charging Israel with mistreatment of minorities, poor housing and bad health conditions.

These are lies. The only well-off Arabs in the world are in the Jewish land.

It is time for Israeli spokesmen to go over to the offensive and proclaim the truth about conditions in Arab lands.

The Arab leaders keep their people in squalor and in degradation. They do not give them good health, good pay, good schooling, or equality for their women.

Israeli spokesmen should storm the media and the platforms and proclaim these truths and charge the Arab leaders with their offenses, including the oppression of Jews, Kurds and other minorities.

This idea has been voiced by one of the keenest observers of the Mideast scene, Shlomo Ben Israel, UN correspondent of the Yiddish Daily

Forward.

Israelis with prestige such as Yigal Yadin, Golda Meir, Moshe Dayan, Abba Eban and others should restlessly find forums to denounce the Arab leaders. And charges against them should be voiced in the UN.
