All the News

By Rabbi Samuel Silver

In New York City there are two radio stations which broadcast only news.

But after listening to either of them all day, you would still have to read the New York Times to find out what really happened.

Why?

Because the stations which advertise "all news all day long" don't give you all the news.

They merely select some news items and keep repeating them.

Furthermore, these radio stations miss a great opportunity in not broadcasting, in full, the fascinating talks given at conferences throughout the world.

After all, radio and tv are at their best not when they stage programs but when they extend our ears and eyes and let us eavesdrop on events that are taking place.

And these all-news radio stations majorize in minors. Every five minutes or so they give you the weather. Frequently, the forecasts are wrong but they never acknowledge their errors but keep pontificating about what the weather'll be like, frightening many people.

ed again and again ad nauseam.

And those commercials! Those inane, puerile, mendacious, wheedling commercials! They're enough to undermine the credibility of the other material oozing out of the mike.

The reiteration of commercials is designed to make us remember the name of the products. I serve notice on all sponsors that I will indeed remember the names -- only to avoid buying things from people who make me sick.

Why can't the sponsors content themselves by saying, "We bring you this program (on radio or tv) in thanks for your patronage." If any merchant ever did that I would eagerly buy what he sells.

I must say that in New York City there is a Jewish radio station, WEVD, which is on a higher scale than the others. There are intelligent commentators, cultural programs, and excellent direct broadcasts of important events. The municipal station, WNYC, is also of a high caliber. It is without commercials, and, alas, may be without an outlet altogether unless the city's financial crunch is overcome.

ISRAEL OFFERS SQUATTERS NEW SITES

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- The government has offered the Gush Emunim squatters at Kadum in Samaria a choice of alternative sites.

The government had earlier ordered the ultra-nationalist group to leave the site on which its followers have been encamped since last November. The offer to the squatters was made by Yehiel Admoni, head of the World Zionist Organization's settlement department, who acted on behalf of the government. Yosef Almogi, chairman of the WZO Executive, at first objected to the WZO's being involved in a political issue.

but changed his mind when Minister-Without-Portfolio Israeli Galili assured him that that the WZO's services were merely technical.

The sites being offered the Gush squatters are in the government-approved areas

20 VOICE NEW CHOIR AT BETH SHOLOM

Oscar B. Goodman, president of Temple Beth Sholom, announced that worshippers at Sabbath services on Friday evening August 20th, will enjoy a special treat. Participating in the services, and making their first official appearance, will be the newly organized Temple Adult Choir. Consisting of approximately 20 voices, the new choir will be conducted by Dr. Barry Fisher, and Martha Olson will be at the organ. Services are held in the main sanctuary and commence at 8 p.m. sharp.

Rabbi Philip Shnairson will conduct and officiate the services, and Cantor Joseph Kohn will chant the liturgy.

Sisterhood will host the congregation to Oneg Shabbat refreshments.

Cantor Kohn, who developed the new Temple choir, stated that it would participate in the forthcoming Jewish High Holidays and would be conducted by Morry King and Dr. Fisher.

Still the most meaningful program in town...
