

COMIC PETER ANTHONY STARS IN PINUPS 77 IN CASBAR THEATRE AT SAHARA

Hotel Sahara's swinging Casbar Theatre takes on the role of a miniature "Big Showroom" September 17, with a brand new version of Pinups and some of the greatest comedians in the business giving the Del Webb resort the greatest lounge entertainment lineup along the fabulous Las Vegas Strip.

Directed - choreographed by Jerry Jackson, Pinups 77 will star singing sensation Mary Welch. Also featured will be comedian Peter Anthony, vocalist Tommy Visco and five lovely Pinups 77.

Along with the spectacular new revue Sahara Entertainment Director Jack Eglash

PETER

has lined up a superstar selection of contemporary comedians with Jackie Gayle kicking off the new lineup on September

27. He will be followed by such standouts as Freddie Bell, Rip Taylor, Pete Barbutti and Gaylord and Holiday.

Everything will be new -- costumes, scenery, music.

With Miss Welch featured in the vocalist department, you'll see the Pinups clad in bathing suits depicting the year 1900 and right through to 1980. And you can't imagine what the young gals will be wearing on the beach in 1980. Many of your favorite pinups in years gone by will be duplicated on stage by Miss Welch and the Pinups, including Betty Grable, Lillian Russell, the Petty Girl and the Gaiety Girls.

CASE OF "DIARY OF ANNE FRANK"

BY DAVID HOROWITZ

NEW YORK (WUP)

-- A former Israeli Ambassador to a number of Latin American states, who had also served as a member of the Israeli Mission to the UN, has come out with a daring exposition in which he vindicates author Meyer Levin by accusing his long-time detractors, among them Lillian Hellman, with having not only plagiarized but also twisted and changed Levin's original quotes from the Diary of Anne Frank as contained in his version of the 15-year-old girl's epic record.

The author of the exposition is Benno Weiser Varon, a refugee from Hitler's Vienna.

In his scalpel-like analysis, entitled "The Haunting of Meyer Levin" and appearing in the current issue of Midstream, Mr. Varon paints a detailed picture of the entire background case involving the two versions of the "Diary" proving conclusively that Levin's detractors -- the so-called Jewish 'Literary Mafia' -- had in their version of the Diary deliberately deleted Anne's references to her Jewishness.

As an example, Varon cites the following:

"Who has made us Jews different from all other people? Who has allowed us to suffer so terribly up till now? It is God who has made us as we are, but it will be God, too, who will raise us up again. If we bear all this suffering and if there are still Jews left, when it is over, then Jews, instead of being doomed, will be held up as an example. Who knows, it might even be our religion from which the world and all the peoples learn good, and for that reason alone do we suffer now. We can never become just Netherlanders, or just English, or just representatives of any other country for that matter, we will always remain Jews, but we want to, too."

And he notes that the (anti-Levin) adapters eliminated this passionate reference to the inability to escape from one's Jewishness, and Anne's proud words, 'but we want to, too.' And they put into her lips words nobody will find in her Diary:

"We are not the only people that've had to suffer -- sometimes one race, sometimes another."
