EMOTIONS CALM AFTER VIOLENCE AT HEBRON

JERUSALEM (WNS) -- The Israeli government was trying to cool down tempers after bitter clashes between Arabs and religious Jews at the Cave of Machpela, the traditional burial place of the patriarchs in Hebron.

The events began during the Yom Kippur weekend when Jews coming to pray at the tomb claimed the curtain for the ark had been stolen. The Arabs later claimed that the Jews threw down Moslem prayer books including copies of the Koran. The next day some 200 Arabs retaliated tearing Jewish prayerbooks and Torah scrolls.

The soldiers at the tomb needed reinforcements to quell the disturbance, arresting about 50 Arabs. Religious Affairs Minister Yitzhak Raphael described the scene in the Machpela Cave a "real pogrom." He said if there had been Jewish acts of "foolhardiness" they didn't compare to what he termed a deliberate, premeditated Arab attack motivated by hatred.

Later about 3000 mourners from all over Israel gathered at the ancient Jewish cemetery in Hebron to witness the ritual burial for the Torah Schrolls, the prayer books and other religious artifacts mutilated and desecrated by the Arab rioters. Israel's two Chief Rabbis, Shlomo Goren and Ovadia Yosef, officiated at the ceremony. Goren appealed to both Jews and Arabs to show restraint. Later, after most of the officials left, Rabbi Moshe Levinger, the leader of Kiryat Arba, the Jewish settlement outside Hebron and of the Gush Emunim, accused the government of responsibility for the tensions between Jews and Arabs.

Premier Yitzhak Rabin said there would be no change in the status quo at Hebron until the Cabinet thoroughly reviews the situation. He said the government is seeking to cool tempers between the Arabs in Hebron and the Jews in Kiryat Arba.

ZOA HOUSE, NEW YORK -- The president of the Zionist Organization of America, Dr. Joseph P. Sternstein, challenged the president of the Mobil Oil Company, M. P. Tavoulares, to a face-to-face public forum in New York or Washington, D.C.
