

KISSINGER, DOBRYNIN TALK ON SOVIET JEWS

WASH. (WNS) -- The State Department maintained a tight-lipped silence over the specifics during a meeting between Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin which dealt with Soviet Jewry.

Department spokesman Robert Funseth would say only that the meeting took place at Kissinger's invitation to discuss "a broad range" of subjects. He declined to specify whether there was any discussion about the harassment of Soviet Jewish activists and the beatings of 12 of them a week ago after they conducted a sit-in at the Supreme Soviet building to protest against the refusal of Soviet authorities to give them visas.

It was pointed out that Democratic President - elect Jimmy Carter had cabled protests to Soviet authorities over the beatings but that there had been no public reaction from the White House. Asked if the U.S. government had made any statements to Soviet officials about the meetings, Funseth said he couldn't say. "The Soviet Union is very much aware of our position on Soviet Jews," he stated.

Meanwhile, more than 40 Jewish activists issued a statement in Moscow appealing "to all those who support the struggle of Soviet Jews for free emigration to Israel" to take action to foil the latest moves by Soviet authorities to discredit and destroy the Jewish emigration movement. The statement was received in New York by the Greater New York Conference on Soviet Jewry which translated it and released it. At the same time, the GNYCSJ reported that many of the signers are now imprisoned. The statement said, in part, that the beatings represent "the most vivid example of the pogrom atmosphere enforced in the country."

Carter's slim victory over President Ford was helped by Jewish voters in such key states as New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio. The Jewish vote nationwide was estimated to have been 75 percent which was midway between the 85 percent Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey received in 1968 and the 65 percent given Sen. George McGovern in 1972. This was also the estimate of Carter headquarters in Atlanta. But Ford's campaign headquarters estimated that the President received about 35 percent of the Jewish vote. In New York City where a heavy plurality won the state for Carter, the Democratic candidate received 80 percent of the vote. Carter did very well in heavily Jewish areas of Brooklyn, Manhattan and the Bronx. However, Democrat Daniel P. Moynihan garnered even a larger percentage of the Jewish vote in defeating incumbent James Buckley in the U.S. Senate race in New York. Carter won 70-75 percent of the vote in the heavily Jewish areas of Philadelphia. Carter's headquarters in Atlanta said that the former Georgia governor won 80 percent of the Jewish votes in Cleveland Heights. But a breakdown of 13 heavily Jewish districts in three Cleveland suburbs showed Carter winning by a slim margin. Carter also received about 70 percent of the Jewish votes in the Miami area and Boston. In Michigan, the Jewish vote was split fairly evenly despite the heavy Democratic registration of Jews. Some saw this as appreciation for Ford's longtime support of Israel while he was in the House of Representatives.
