SARTRE HOPES FOR PEACE IN MIDEAST

PARIS (WNS) -- French philosopher Jean-Paul Sartre who 12 years ago turned down the Nobel Prize for Literature, accepted an honorary doctorate from the Hebrew University in Jerusalem November 8.

Sartre, who is the founder of Existentialism, explained "This is a political acceptance of a situation of a country whose progress I have always followed. I have been a friend of Israel since its creation and even before." Sartre, who as always in the past turned down all honorary awards, said in his short acceptance speech: "I hope Israel will develop in freedom and peace. It is in a difficult situation and has endured several painful wars. It risks being plunged into misery again in the future."

The French philosopher, who is world known for his leftist campaigns, added a warning note: "Peace can be achieved in only one way -- by a dialogue between the Israelis and the Palestinians. I think forces for peace exist in both camps. Such a dialogue will eventually take place, either today or tomorrow, because events are hastening towards such an event."

Sartre, who looked sick and spoke in a weak and quavering voice, added he was just as concerned for the Palestinians "who have suffered a lot" as for the Israelis. He repeated several times: "A solution to the Middle East tragedy depends on links between the two peoples." In taking the scroll from the hands of the Hebrew University President Abraham Harman, Sartre said: "I accept this gift here today as an element in helping to achieve peace sometime."
