for artistic children. But Maariv said there were actually $20,000 in the account of which $10,000 had already been spent during the Rabins various trips to the U.S. There were no claims that the Rabins had put money into the account after leaving Washington.

Likud MKs have called for a swift investigation and demanded that the probe be conducted by the police as is the usual case of sums of $5,000 or more.

PERES ENDORSED BY RULING PARTY

TEL AVIV, Israel
-- Defense Minister
Shimon Peres won overwhelming endorsement from his ruling Labor party Sunday as its candidate for prime minister, He immediately assured the United States he is serious about peace
with the Arabs,

"In spite of the personal changes that took place in the major party of this country, there won't be any substantial changes in the policy of Israel" if he is elected in the May 17 national balloting. Peres told reporters.

reporters.

"Namely, we shall continue to strive (for) meaningful negotiations with the neighboring Arab countries in order to achieve a real complete peace in the Middle East," Peres said, He said he did not foresee war.

But he earlier
cautioned the Arabs
against harboring illusions that Israel's political upheavals
should encourage

them to renew the conflict.

Peres, 54, replaced Prime Minister Rabin as Labor's candidate following Rabin's resignation Thursday because of a scandal in which he and his wife were caught holding an illegal bank account in Washington, D.C.

illegal bank account in Washington, D.C.
Rabin, 55, was Israel's first native-born prime minister and succeeded Golda Meir to the post in June 1974. Peressaid he felt "deep sorrow" about Rabin's downfall.

Peres clearly tried to minimize his hawkish image with his assurances to the United States on his willingness to conclude a peace agreement with Egypt, Syria and Jordan, But by pledging no "substantial" changes in Israeli policy he apparently did not rule out differences between him and the Rabin administration,

SADAT URGES U.S. TO INCLUDE PLO

WASH. (WNS) --President Egyptian Sadat, during three - day official visit here, publicly pressed the United States to include the Palestinians Middle East negotiaand privately tions urged the Egypt with supply arms.

At the same time, Sadat told a news conference just be-fore he left Washington April 6 that he wanted "normalizawanted 'tion' of relations between Israel Israel and although he Egypt, although he ruled out trade and cultural exchanges for the Sadat, w present. who met times with President Carter. continually came back to the Palestinian is-sue which he said along with Israel's along with Israel's occupation of Arab territory were the "crux and core" of the Mideast dispute.

Carter welcomed Sadat April 4 in the East Room of the White House instead of the lawn because of rain by expressing the hope that 1977 will be "a fruitfull year" and "an inspiration to us all" in the search for peace in the Mideast. Carter said he sought "the oppor-

the other."

Sadat replied that the U.S. has a "mission to fulfill" in the Mideast and that "you cannot allow the occupation of land." He said Carter is "aware of the centrality of the Palestinian cause to the entire dispute, It is the core and crux of the issue. No progress whatever can be achieved so long as this problem remains unvolved."

Sadat, in his statements. referred repeatedly to Carter's statement of a need for a homeland for the Palestinians as coming "very close to the proper context." At a White House dinner for Sadat, the Egyptian President stressed that "a dialogue" by the U.S. that "a with the Palestinians "will reassure them and stimulate further who referred to either a "Pala" either a "Palestin-ian entity" or "state" at his news con-ference April 6 said a Palestinian must be created which the West includes Bank, the Gaza Strip and "corridor through Israel" to link them.

The State Department meanwhile emphasized that the United States has

PLO STATE, THE PRICE FOR PEACE

WASH., D.C. (WUP)

- At the conclusion
of his talks with President Carterlast
week, Egypt's President Anwar el - Sadat
was asked by a reporter if there could be a normalization of relations with Israel
once a Geneva agreement was signed.

"For sure," was his reply, "It will be normalization. That's what I am seeking, to end the state of belligerency, to give Israel whatever guarantees she asks for from whatever body she agrees to, and to solve the Palestinian question by creating the new not changed its Palestinian state on the West Bank and the Gaza Strip with a corridor between them through Israel, and, for sure, everything will be normalized after that,"

In simpler words, as a price for peace and 'partial' normalization of relations with Israel (he excluded trade in a final agreement), Sadat wants a PLO-dominated Arab state in the territories including a 'corridor' through Israel proper linking the West Bank to the Gaza Strip.

to the Gaza Strip.
That's all he wants and only "after" Yasir Arafat's gang is well-entrenched in a third Soviet-supported Arab state in the very bosom of the Jewish State can the Israelis have an Arab 'peace'

Of course, in a gesture aimed at appeasing the U,S, and the Israelis, Sadat once again noted the necessity for a link between the PLO state and Jordan, Mazal toy!
