Slichot Services will be held at Temple Beth Sholom at Midnight, Saturday, September 3. Social hour and refreshments will be served from 11 to midnight, preceding the services.

The whole town turned out for the Bar Mitzvah reception for Stephen Brown last Saturday night. It looked like a couple of thousand of Nevada's notables, including our Mayor, supreme court judges, assemblymen, commissioners, the press and entertainers, who assembled in the Circus Circus convention hall to congratulate Municipal Judge Seymour Brown on the Bar Mitzvah of his son. It was a magnificent affair.

If you are wondering what happened to former Dunes barber Angelo Ciccotti, he now is performing tonsorial artistry at the Flamingo. Of course, the best manicurist in town, Adele, is still with him.

Temple Beth Sholom congregants who remember Anthony Thomas, who for twelve years stood out as the only Black person in the choir, with his rich bass voice, and also served as choir director, will be interested in learning he is now director and lead singer with St. James Catholic Church choir.

Engagement announced for Glori Friedman and Joe Berger with June marriage planned at Temple Beth Sholom.

The beautiful Cynthia Bonchosky, who we remember as a little girl, will be married to Stephen Jones of the Vegas Paint Family, on September 10. We wish them the best.

The 1977 Keno Celebration Contest at the El Cortez starts September 19. First prize is a 1977 Mustang.

Registration cards for 1977 Las Vegas Entertainment Awards are in the mail. Winners will be seen on a NBC-TV, two-hour special in December.

Line Renaud, star of the Casino de Paris show in Paris for the past two years, told us she is now one of the front office executives of that operation. She visited Las Vegas for a week and was guest of honor at a cocktail party in the palatial home of interior decorator Ed Mann.

Ed Jaffe, the incredible N. Y. press agent was in town for Bea Tell's birthday party (not saying what year) at son, Mike's. DiMartino's catered it beautifully.

While we're at it Lou Mitnick, who owns Stop Look Signs, came in from L.A. with wife, Debbie, when he heard about the EXACTA Keno at the Royal Inn. They're stopping at the Sahara. And Dick Miller, the Oregon real estate tycoon, checked in at Caesars Palace for last weekend.

Community Drama Workshop meets every Wednesday evening 7 - 9 p.m. All Saints Episcopal Church, 4201 W. Washington and it's free. 647-1304.

Acquisition of key parking space by the Rendezvous Hotel in downtown Las Vegas was announced today by general manager Marty Kopolow. The 60-car parking lot is located on the corner of Ogden and Las Vegas Boulevard, North, "less than a stone's throw from the hotel," Kopolow said, pointing out that parking will be free for Rendezvous patrons on a "validation" basis. It will have "24-hour security coverage, attendant service and will be brilliantly lit, thus providing our local patrons with the kind of parking facility to which they are entitled." The lot, located on the northeast corner, is just several hundred feet from the hotel.

Rabbi Samuel M. Silver, who writes those delightfully light columns for the Las Vegas ISRAELITE and other Jewish publications, has moved from his congregation in Connecticut to Lee County Jewish Center in Cape Coral, Fla. The good Rabbi, who's books "Mixed Marriage," and "Explaining Judaism to Jews and Christians," (Arco Publishing Co., N.Y.), will continue writing his column. Rabbi Silver, an advocate for permitting mixed marriages, is a humorist and outstanding on the lecture circuit. He would be an asset as guest speaker at any congregation.
